County officials discuss four-day work schedule

No decision made; Aberasturi:
county's customers must come first

County officials are contemplating a four-day schedule for Owyhee County business offices.

The topic was broached during last week's Board of County Commissioners meeting in Murphy, but there is no indication a decision is coming soon.

During the Aug. 4 administrative meeting, County Clerk Angie Barkell told the commissioners that Gooding County's offices currently are open four days a week. Gooding County offices are open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. According to the Idaho Association of Counties, which conducted an informal poll for The Owyhee Avalanche, Blaine County also has a four-day workweek, while seven other counties have various departments on non-traditional schedules. Twenty-eight of the other 43 counties in the state had responded to IAC by 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Homedale plans nearly 15% hike in irrigation rates

Proposed FY 15 budget includes library wage hike; hearing tonight

After years of complaints from city auditors about the City of Homedale irrigation fund's lack of self-sufficiency, the city council wants to do something about it.

The proposed $3.5 million Fiscal Year 2015 budget includes a 14.6 percent increase in irrigation user rates. The council will hold a public hearing to institute the increase after the budget is finalized, City Clerk and Treasurer Alice Pegram said.

The city has continually borrowed from the general fund to support the irrigation fund because even though Gem Irrigation District rates that the city pays keep rising, the city council has never taken action to pass the increase on to residents.

Pegram said the irrigation

Marsing city budget hearing set

Waterways Improvement grant accounts for larger parks fund

A public hearing for the proposed fiscal year 2015 city budget will be held during the monthly city council meeting at 7 p.m. today inside Marsing City Hall.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting can pick up a copy of the proposed $2,287,867 FY 2015 budget at the City Hall.

The bulk of the 10.8 percent increase in the budget compared to FY 2014 comes in the parks budget, which will rise more than $100,000 to $135,954 in part because of a grant secured to begin improvements at Island Park.

In the current year, Marsing budgeted just $23,162 for the parks department.

The city has received an $88,500 Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation Waterways Improvement Grant for improving Island Park. To cover the city's matching funds for this year's grant, $24,000 is being transferred from the general fund to the park fund.

The new grant will pay for construction on Phase 1 of the project, and allowance is made in the budget for a second $88,500 grant application intended to cover next year's Phase 2. If awarded, the second grant will be received during FY 2015.

The city's general fund is set to increase 31.4 percent to $593,140, and the irrigation fund will increase $15,000 to just under $61,000. The sewer fund will increase nearly $40,000 to $486,920.

The $141,569 increase in the general fund is partly because of carryover from FY 2014, city clerk Janice Bicandi said.

The city must make two bond payments out of the general fund in the coming year, she said. A water bond payment of $102,850 is due Nov. 15, and a sewer bond payment of $48,819 will be due June 1.

The sewer fund also has an increase because the city is transferring $161,720 from the general fund to the sewer fund to pay back the expenses of last year's Bruneau Trunk Line Sewer Project, which depleted the fund. The project was needed because an emergency situation occurred when fresh water leaked into the lagoon, Bicandi said. The repair work by Pipeline Inspections Inc. included installing new pipe liners throughout the city.

The road and street fund is reduced by $35,000 from last year because there will be fewer capital outlays in FY 2015. During the current fiscal year, the city did more seal coating and patching and purchased a new Kubota last year for $14,100.

There are no changes to the planning and zoning or the sanitation funds.

The water fund shows a decrease of $20,000, because anticipated funds in the department were overestimated last year, so the FY 2015 fund amount was lowered, Bicandi said.

The proposed tax levy of $146,006 is about $260 less than last year's amount.

For more information, call City Hall at 896-4122.

Adding water, sewer inflates Grand View FY 2015 budget

Hearing takes place at tonight's council meeting

After years set apart and operated by a separate board with some of the same members, the Grand View Water and Sewer Association will become part of the City of Grand View government in fiscal year 2015.

That move has resulted in a proposed $574,853 budget that will be the subject of a public hearing during the council's monthly meeting, which begins at 6 tonight at City Hall, 425 Boise Ave.

Last year's budget, set when the water and sewer association was still a separate entity, was $255,095, less than half of the consolidated appropriations anticipated in the coming year.

The water and sewer budget lines account for $470,132 of the city's budget, or 81.8 percent of the total expenditures.

The budget includes $10,000 earmarked to reconfigure the city's second sewer lagoon.

The council has proposed a FY 2015 water contingency fund of $40,000, which accounts for nearly $33,000 of the $54,000 increase in the water budget compared to FY 2014.

Likewise, the sewer budget has several contingency funds, totaling about $77,000 and accounting for nearly 75 percent of the increase in the budget.

City works employees stand to receive a 3 percent pay increase in the new budget.

City Hall closed next week

Grand View also plans to place about $27,500 in the state investment pool with an eye toward using it later to upgrade accounting software or for use as matching funds for improvement grants.

All other budgets decreased considerably compared to FY 2014.

The general fund is proposed for $57,406, down nearly $18,000 from the current budget year.

The city's streets and roads budget is $90,000 leaner than FY 2014.

The Parks budget will shrink nearly $42,500 to less than $9,300.

The city has set aside $1,200 to work on the city's comprehensive plan.

A survey stake stands in the area that the Homedale City Council could vacate at tonight's meeting.

Surplus property could bring business to Homedale

Public hearing slated at tonight's council meeting

The Homedale City Council is poised to make way for a new business. A public hearing scheduled at tonight's first meeting of the month will address a proposal to surplus city property near U.S. Highway 95 and South Main Street. Mountain View Equipment is looking to the old Valley Machine Shop property in Homedale as a retail location to replace the agricultural machinery company's Caldwell store, which is closing at the end of the year. The public hearing notice published in The Owyhee Avalanche states that the sliver of land between the late Paul Fink's old business and the highway has no monetary value to the city. Later in the meeting, the council is scheduled to discuss and possibly take action on a quit claim deed that would transfer the land to Mountain View Equipment. The land transfer would give the company business frontage near the highway. The public hearing on the surplus property is scheduled to take place after the council holds a public hearing on the proposed $3.5 million Fiscal Year 2015 budget. The council's first meeting of August begins at 6 p.m. inside City Hall, 31 W. Wyoming Ave. A citizen also has asked to speak to the council about a possible repeal of the 2006 animal control ordinance that banned all chickens from the city limits. Representatives from the city's engineering contractors, Riedesel Engineering, will present the council with project funding opportunities.

PA won't prosecute BLM crew accused of trespassing

Owyhee County Prosecuting Attorney Douglas D. Emery will not prosecute a federal survey crew that was accused of trespassing earlier this summer in the southwestern section of the county. In a letter to Owyhee County Sheriff's Office officials, Emery cited the U.S. Constitution's Supremacy Clause as a reason not to prosecute, noting that the clause "provides that the U.S. Constitution and federal law generally is supreme to state laws." "A common interpretation of the Supremacy Clause is that a state may not enforce its laws against federal officials undertaking a role of the federal office under the color of federal law," Emery wrote. In his July 16 letter addressed to Sheriff Perry Grant, Chief Deputy Lynn Bowman and Sgt. Kenny Hoagland, the county's Backcountry Deputy, said facts of the case involving a Bureau of Land Management survey crew using a private road to access public land didn't support filing criminal charges. Emery did say, however, that any of the affected landowners could pursue civil action against the BLM group. Several ranchers are parties in a usage agreement for the road the BLM crew used to get to the grazing allotments. The road does cross several private parcels but apparently is the most practical route to the public land holdings. Emery pointed out that because there are several parties involved in the agreement, no one landowner could deny access. Emery also said the BLM surveyors couldn't be prosecuted because they had reason to believe that they had permission to cross private property to carry out their work.

Several new teachers to greet Homedale students

Four-day schedule kicks off Monday

The new four-day school week begins Monday in Homedale, and teachers and administrators are busy getting ready.

“I think for the most part in the classroom we’re close to getting ready and its just going to be a matter of learning from the new process, learning and getting better,” Homedale schools superintendent Rob Sauer said.

“As (school board Kurt Shanley) said, our goal is to be the best we can be whether we have a four-day week or a five-day week, and this year it’s a four-day week.”

Shanley and vice-chair Shane Muir retained their leadership positions on the board of trustees during last month’s reorganization.

Classes will be held Monday through Thursday, and Sauer said Sept. 12 will be the first Friday in which the schools will be open in the morning for student support. Two of the Fridays will be longer to provide for enrichment opportunities, and Sauer aid the district will share details with parents and those days approach.

The aging boiler in the 74-year-old portion of Homedale High School will be replaced sometime before winter, Sauer said. Failure of the boiler last year forced the closure of school for one day. Because of the needed boiler work, trustees have foregone authorizing upgrades, such as new carpet, the superintendent said.

Transportation and maintenance supervisor Tom Muir is still gathering bids for the project, Sauer said.

The change in the schedule isn’t the only big difference for the 2014-15 school year. There will be several new faces in the classrooms at all three schools.

Longtime teachers resigned during the summer, including high school science teacher Mark Weekes and high school social studies teacher Harley Miller. At the middle school, Nick Schamber resigned as a social studies teacher and Lindsey Miller stepped down as a science teacher.

Practice for HHS fall sports begins Friday with a new coach leading the volleyball team. Diana Asumendi was promoted from the frosh-soph team to coach varsity after Julie Gregory stepped down. Heidi Nash takes the helm of the frosh-soph team in place of Asumendi.

The school’s marching band and choir will have a new director, too. Veteran Caldwell music

Lunch prices change

The Homedale School District raised lunch prices slightly to comply with federal regulations.

Lunch at the elementary school will cost $1.50, a 7.14 percent increase from last year’s $1.40.

Middle school and high school students will pay $1.75, which is about six percent more than last year’s $1.65.

Reduced-price lunches at all schools are 40 cents apiece. An adult lunch costs $3.55.

Breakfast is free to all students in the district. Adults pay $2.05.

Meals must be prepaid, district food service director Vicki Eby said. Children will be limited to $10 in charges, and a full meal will not be provided when a child exceeds that amount.

Eby said any necessary arrangements must be made in advance through the Food Service Department.

Parents and guardians should also contact the Food Service Department throughout the year with any questions regarding their child’s account.

Applications to receive free or reduced meals are available at www.homedaleschools.org under the Food Service Department tab. Applications also are available at each school either in the main office or the kitchen.

Contact the Food Service Department at 337-4033 or FoodService@homedaleschools.org to have an application sent home.

schedule also served as a tool to retain returning teachers.

- Rebekah Page, first-grade teacher
- Amber Farris, middle school social studies
- Jamie Freelove, middle school math
- Kim Portwood, middle school science
- Alex Willson and Bethany Updike, high school English
- Ed Lee, who previously taught English at the middle school, returns to the district as a social studies and English teacher at the high school.
- Eileen Walker, who will teach music part-time at the elementary school after the departure of Tony Bradshaw
- Cameron Wiemerslage, high school science
- David Hann, eighth-grade volleyball coach
- Debby Turner, seventh-grader volleyball coach
- Willson, Adam Stokes and Tony Uranga will serve as middle school football coaches.

Heidi Ankeny (cross country coach), Cheri Holloway (color guard advisor), Wendy Aberasturi (high school cheer advisor) and Angel Salazar (band percussion coach) will return to their respective positions this year.

Pastor organizes back to school prayer again

The second annual Back to School Prayer Night takes place Sunday at four locations in and around Homedale.

Homedale Friends Community Church pastor Luke Ankeny announced the plans last week.

The event will take place from 5:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. at Homedale Elementary School, 420 W. Washington Ave.; Homedale Middle School, 3437 Johnstone Road; Homedale High School, 203 E. Idaho Ave.; and at the Friends church, 17434 U.S. 95, Wilder, which is the location for prayer for everyone affiliated with home school, private school or the Canyon-Owyhee School Service Agency.

At each location, designated leaders will lead the time of prayer for the community’s teachers, students, school administrators and school activities as well as the community in general.

For more information, contact Ankeny at 337-3464 or luke.ankeney@gmail.com.

Homedale Elementary Meet the Teacher Night is Friday

Classes begin Monday at all three schools

Homedale Elementary School will hold a Meet the Teacher Night on Friday.

Parents will have 30-minute meetings with their child’s teacher.

The event runs from 3:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the school, 420 W. Washington Ave.

The teachers will outline expectations and procedures for the 2014-15 school year. Students are asked to bring their school supplies so they can put them away in their classrooms.

The first day of class is Monday.

The elementary school starts its four-day school week this year with classes starting at 8 a.m. each day and the students being released at 3:50 p.m.

For more information, call the school at 337-4033.

The school year ends with a half-day on May 21.

Bruneau-Grand View district prepares for school year

Open house this week at all three schools

Open houses are planned this week as the school year looms in the Bruneau-Grand View School District.

Open house at Rimrock Jr.-Sr. High School will run from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. today.

Grand View Elementary School’s open house takes place from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday. For more information on Grand View Elementary, call (208) 834-2775.

Bruneau Elementary School open house will be held from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday. For more information on Bruneau Elementary, call (208) 845-2492.

Any student who is new to the district can register at their respective school after Thursday and Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Proof of immunization and a birth certificate are required at the time of enrollment.

Sixth-graders who were in the district as fifth-graders do not need to pre-register.

Classes begin at the elementary schools on Tuesday and will run from 8 a.m. to 3:50 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. School starts at Rimrock on Thursday, Aug. 21, and class will be in session between 8:15 a.m. and 3:39 p.m.

Lunch fees are $2.05 for kindergarteners through fifth-graders (the elementary schools) and $2.30 for sixth- through 12th-graders.

Checks for school lunch should be separate from all other fees and should be made payable to Joint School District No. 365.

All students in the district will be eligible to receive free breakfast.

Information on junior high school and high school athletics is available by calling Rimrock at (208) 845-2260.

Students entering sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth or 11th grade must get a physical in order to participate in athletics. Valley Health Clinic in Grand View can provide physicals. Call (208) 834-2929 to set an appointment.

Obituaries

Donald Stuart Davies

Dec. 16, 1927 – Aug. 4, 2014

On August 4, at 6:30 PM, the old gun man from Marsing passed on to greener pastures. Don attended his last gun show at the Lewis & Clark Gun Show on July 12, and still in his last days, was selling guns out of his bed. Don is survived by his wife of 20 years, Carol, daughter Mary (Jack) Waite; sons Martin (Linda) of Walnut Creek, CA, and Stewart (Robin) of North Pole, AK; and numerous grandchildren. He was preceded in death by one son, Mark, his parents, and beloved Aunt Helen.

Gun shows were the essence of Don’s life. He eagerly looked forward to the next show down the road. He would talk about upcoming shows and encourage all to stop by and do some trading. Don was in the height of glory when working with guns. He was a Civil War buff, and had a library full of books on Civil War History and Indian Wars guns. Don shot in every gun competition there was. He taught hunter’s safety education and concealed weapons classes. He reloaded hundreds of boxes of ammunition for all kinds of guns and especially loved repairing guns.

Carol invites family, friends and old gun buddies to attend a celebration of Don’s life and a dinner to follow. Memorial Services will be at the LDS building located at 12th and Everett Street in Caldwell, on August 16, 2014 at 11:00 AM. Private interment will be held later in day at the Lower Boise Cemetery near Parma. Condolences can be given at www.flahifffuneralchapel.com

Zella Eunice Owen

Zella Eunice Owen, 80 of Wilder, passed away Monday, August 04, 2014 at home of natural causes. Memorial services were held at 10:00 a.m., Saturday, August 9th at the Golden Gate Baptist Church in Wilder, followed by a potluck meal.

Zella was born December 3, 1933 at Hebron, Missouri the daughter of Hobart and Edna Carter Smallwood. She came to the Wilder area with her parents where she was raised and educated. Zella married Dean Prueitt and a daughter, Shelly, was born to their marriage. Dean passed away and she later married Robert Owen and a daughter, Kay, and a son, Kevin, were born to their marriage. Robert later passed away, and Zella raised the three children by herself. She worked as a cook for Lakey’s Caf  in Caldwell, retiring in 2001.

She was a member of the Golden Gate Baptist Church in Wilder.

Surviving are her children, Shelly (Terry) White, Kay (Jerry) McMurray and Kevin Owen; a brother, Farrel (Norma) Smallwood; and her sisters, Loyce (Don) Bingaman and Joyce (Jerry) Shields; three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Heart and Home Hospice Foundation.

The rodeo begins at 9 a.m. at the Jordan Valley Rodeo Grounds. Entries closed Aug. 1

Admission is $3 per person or $10 per carload. Concessions will be available.

The day begins with a boot race for boys and girls 5 and younger.

Other events scheduled include barrel racing, pole bending, goat tying, flag racing, calf and cow riding, breakaway roping, calf roping, and team roping.

Four different age groups will be contested: Mini Mites for ages 6 and younger, Pee Wees for ages 7-9, Juniors for ages 10-13 and Seniors for ages 14-18.

An all around buckle will be awarded to the overall boy and girl champion in each age division. Champions in each event at each age level will receive buckles, too. There are prizes for finishers through fifth place in each event.

The Jordan Valley Junior Rodeo’s 2014 scholarship went to Jordan Valley High School graduate Ben Telleria.

Story Time features three little pigs wanting to big

Three piglet brothers trying to prove they’re not little at all is the tale at this week’s Story Time for the Homedale Public Library.

“Big Pigs” by Leslie Helakoski will be read at 10:15 a.m. Friday at the library, 125 W. Owyhee Ave. Along with the story, there will be singing, crafts and snacks.

The library is open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. For more information, call 337-4228.

Thank YOU!

We would like to thank everyone for their participation in the Connor Rhodes Yard Sale held at Fox Canyon Vineyards, especially to those who volunteered their time and donations. It was greatly appreciated. A special thank you to Gloria Vogt, Shea and Samantha McClellin, and Dr. Dan and Sandy Hendrickson for their generosity.

Running Horses (Pearl Duncan)

A group of men were mustanging on the desert and riding out of the Loveland Horse Camp on Grassy Mountain. They had hired Fred Palmer, an old-timer, to do the cooking. All went well until a rainstorm came in. The cook got tired of the men laying around camp waiting for it to clear up and told them he'd be darned if he was going to work if they didn't.

Pearl Duncan had been playing cards in a tent with the others when he decided he'd see if he could scare up something to eat. He couldn't find a thing to eat in the cook tent. The cook was leaning back on the pole sound asleep and snoring. Pearl took the lid off a can of cayenne pepper and sprinkled it liberally on the old man's mustache. He stepped out and watched through the flap till he saw the pepper sift up through the mustache and into his nose. Pearl ran over to his tent, laid down and pretended to be asleep. He heard the cook start to sneeze a little, then go into a coughing, sneezing, and cussing fit.

He ran best he could to Pearl's tent because he had good reason to suspect him. Duncan pretended to wake up, rubbed his eyes, and asked innocently what the problem was. All the old man could say was, "I'm going to kill the son-of-a-gun ... by God I'll kill who ever did that." Pearl finally got him to explain what the problem was and reassured the old cook, "Now don't you tell the others and I'll keep my eyes open and when I find out who did it, I'll help you kill him."

South Mtn. residential phone rates may increase

Oregon-Idaho Utilities wants to raise rates for their phone customers in the South Mountain exchange.

The utility has filed an application with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission to adjust residential local service rates incrementally from the current monthly rate of $15.77 to $20 over the next two years. If the PUC approves the application, the rates would gradually rise until June 2017.

The rate increase would affect only Idaho customers with the 583 prefix. Oregon customers have different rates, which are set by the PUC in that state.

There are 81 total phone lines (55 residential and 26 business) in the company's South Mountain Exchange.

According to the company's manager, Doug Musgrave, the increase is being sought to comply with recent Federal Communications Commission orders.

The request is subject to public review and comment. A copy of the PUC application may be obtained from the company's offices, 1023 N. Horton St., Nampa, ID 83651 or from the Idaho PUC at 427 W. Washington, Boise, ID 83702-5918.

The PUC's phone number is (208) 334-0300. Oregon-Idaho Utilities can be reached at (208) 461-7802.

The application also may be viewed on the PUC homepage at: <http://www.puc.idaho.gov/fileroom/cases/summary/tele.html>.

Oregon-Idaho Utilities is a privately owned, independent, local exchange carrier serving remote, rural customers in southeast Oregon and southwest Idaho. OIU's Idaho service territory encompasses the South Mountain Exchange.

40-year Posse members do it for the love of Owyhee

Colleagues salute Malmberg, Nettleton at rodeo

Even with all the bravado that must be necessary to serve in an outfit called a posse, Bob Malmberg and Paul Nettleton understand the humility of their job.

That's probably why Friday's ceremony saluting the pair's 40 years of service with the Owyhee County Sheriff's Posse was short and sweet.

"It's a great honor, and I really appreciate it," Nettleton said hours before he and Malmberg were driven out into the Owyhee County Fairgrounds rodeo arena to receive their kudos.

"I don't really feel it's all deserved. We just did what we needed to do."

During Friday's ceremony, which was attended by a handful of Posse colleagues, the men received certificates of commendation and a letter from Idaho Gov. C. L. "Butch" Otter as well as photos of the current Posse lineup encased in barnwood and barbed wire frames built by sheriff's Chief Deputy Lynn Bowman.

Bowman began his law enforcement career as a member of the Posse with Malmberg and Nettleton, and other members of the younger generation also understand the pair's impact on the outfit that has transformed from a search-and-rescue organization to a true extension of the sheriff's office during the five decades that the two men have served.

"I think it's important to note that not just younger members look up to them, but also long-active members," Posse secretary James Ferdinand said. "Their input is valued, and they're still giving back to the community and the Posse."

Malmberg, who always seems to have a twinkle in his eye to keep everyone guessing, understands the respect that their Posse colleagues have.

"Paul and I don't say much, but when we do, we mean it," Malmberg said.

In addition to a certificate and letter from Gov. C. L. "Butch" Otter, Paul Nettleton, left, and Bob Malmberg, right, also were presented with a photo of current Posse members encased in custom frames built by Owyhee County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Lynn Bowman, who served on the Posse with Nettleton and Malmberg before embarking on a full-time law enforcement career. Photo by Jon P. Brown

There are only a handful of 20-year members, all of whom aren't required to attend meetings.

"We don't have to go to meetings if we don't want to," Malmberg said. "But Paul and I like to go stir stuff up."

There's more to Malmberg and Nettleton than service. They've also helped perpetuate the Posse as their sons have followed them into the volunteer group.

Malmberg's son, Tony, made the presentations Friday night. Another son, Rob, served on the Posse until he moved to Hermiston, Ore.

Nettleton's son, Chad, has joined in recent years, too.

It's a mixed blessing for Malmberg.

"It makes you feel pretty good," he said. "Then you worry about them a little more with the way things are changing."

Sheriff Tim Nettleton brought Malmberg and Paul Nettleton (he's a cousin) onto the Posse in 1974, but both men had been helping previously. Malmberg, who will turn 78 in the fall, had stood as a special deputy since 1971. Nettleton, who turns 65 later this year, was so prevalent that the sheriff thought he was already a Posse member when Paul broke up a fight at the 1973 Owyhee Cattlemen's Association summer meeting in Silver City.

"Tim asked me if I had my Posse card, and I said, 'No I'm not on the Posse,' then Tim said, 'Well, you're (expletive) gonna be,'" Paul Nettleton recalled.

Within months, he was part of the group, and he and Malmberg were working side-by-side with original Posse members such as John Malmberg Jr. and Leroy Beaman.

And they were on the ground floor of a transition as Tim Nettleton worked to shape the Posse into a group of lawmen more than search parties.

Both men were in service when Claude Dallas was brought to the county jail in Murphy.

"There was a rumor that the Dallas cheerleaders were going to try to take him out," Paul Nettleton said in his colorful way of describing a jailbreak.

He drew the assignment of lookout on the courthouse roof, he said, because his cousin knew he could shoot straight. Malmberg was in the courthouse.

Any conversation with men who have been intertwined with Owyhee County as long as Malmberg and Nettleton have invariably will come around to Dallas, but there are far more memories than the most infamous.

"I put in a lot of late nights on search and rescue and wrecks and snow-covered roads that were closed," Nettleton said.

Malmberg said he was grateful for the sacrifices his wife, Judy, made that allowed him to serve.

"You've got to care for people and your home, your family, has to be with you 100 percent," he said. "If not for my wife, I wouldn't be able to do it."

"I didn't have to worry about my kids because all the paid cops had an eye on them."

Both men have been on countless searches, both for lost boys as well as escaped jail inmates.

Their knowledge of the country — Malmberg in the northwest corner of the county and Nettleton in the area stretching from Murphy to Silver City — is invaluable.

So is their pride.

Nettleton's fondest memory is he and Tom Benson finding a jail escapee hiding in a home that sheriff's deputies had searched earlier.

"Ol' Tom and I felt pretty good about that because those professionals had been in that house and didn't find him," Nettleton said.

But it's the love they have for their county that keeps them going.

"You've got to love the county, and it's your home," Nettleton said.

"Like Tim used to say, 'It's not going to happen in my county.' After a while, you feel that way — 'Not in my territory.'"

Head 'em up and move 'em out!

Jensen, volunteers face challenge of moving market animals

Some people can breathe a sigh of relief when the activities wind down at the Owyhee County Fair, but not University of Idaho Extension educator Scott Jensen, or any of the staff members at the fair office.

When it's over, it isn't really over for them.

There is a great deal of work that happens after the fair ends, Jensen said.

Besides making sure all the fair awards are recorded, and all the 4-H kids who have awards in the livestock auction are paid, office manager Debbie Titus must figure out all the add-on donations, which have been increasing every year.

In 2012, there were 267 add-ons, but this year there were 1,575 to take care of. The add-ons last year came to $79,647. Total auction sales last year, including the add-ons, amounted to $287,147.

It takes a full week of work after the fair closes to finish all the office duties, Jensen said.

But, there is one last big push that happens every year at the end of fair, that many people may not be aware of, he said.

It's the final disbursement of all the market animals, which happened last Sunday morning after the fair closed on Saturday.

The process of sorting out animals and sending them to the right feedlots can be tricky and things can go wrong. A few years ago, Jensen and his assistant Dave Rutan discovered some of the animals showed up at the wrong places, so they had to go and straighten out the situation.

"By the time we got the right animals going to the right places, it was about 10 p.m. on Sunday night," Jensen said.

Usually, things go smoothly, but the whole process takes extra effort and a little "double-checking" to make sure it is carried out right, Jensen said. Last year, there were no glitches and the record was 100 percent accurate, he said.

All market animals are sold on a "per head" basis, depending on the weight of the animal.

Businesses and individuals can contribute to the market animal program in three ways. First, they can purchase a whole animal (buyer pays for harvest, cutting and wrapping). Second, they can support (resale) by paying the difference between floor price and the bid. (For example, if the floor price is $100 and the bid price is $400, the buyer pays the difference of $300 and the animal is sold to a resale buyer for the floor price.) Third, an animal can be purchased for a flat amount (add-on), in which a person can designate an amount of support for youth.

The auction is a situation where a lot happens all at once, which can result in confusion later, Jensen said.

It all starts at the auction sale table. The buyer fills out the information, then when someone bids on an animal, the 4-H kids are the runners who take the slip to the bidder to obtain a signature on the slip.

It has "been a challenge" keeping the buyer information up to date, with correct phone numbers, Jensen said. Sometimes the slips are marked questionably, so calls need to be made in order to confirm the information.

This year, there were close to 300 animals to keep track of, including 113 pigs, 90 lambs, 14 goats, and 26 steers. The lambs, goats and steers are usually assigned more easily than the pigs, Jensen said.

Pigs are a problem, he said, mainly because they are an animal not well-suited to being shipped, and there are no packing plants in close proximity for them.

"We have no resale buyer for the pigs, so we have to find individuals to take them," he said.

Anyone interested in obtaining pigs had to sign up for them on the "resale pig list."

Jensen said he and Dan Mori went through the information at the end of the day on Saturday and determined how many pigs there were and who they were going to. It is a process which usually takes until late in the evening.

"We have to check the information on all the buyer slips, then we have a destination list, and we have to go back through and make sure the animal counts are accurate," Jensen said. He and Mori didn't go home until all the numbers matched.

Very early Sunday morning, the two men assigned a different color to each destination on the list, for example, green, yellow, etc. They walked through the pens, marking each animal with colored grease paint to indicate where they should go. Then they went back through the list, checking to make sure all the numbers match.

This year, the animals went out to many different slaughter operations, including: Greenleaf Custom Meats in Greenleaf, Don's Meats in Emmett, Custom Butchers in Garden City, Wakefield Meats in Melba, Greenfields Meats in Meridian, L&L Meats in Homedale, and a resale dealer, Dale Treasure in Caldwell.

Most of the resale steers went to Washington Beef, in Toppenish, Wash., a company owned by Agri beef.

The resale goats and sheep were taken by Dale Treasure, and the pigs went to local butchers.

The big push happened last Sunday.

Volunteers came in on Sunday morning with their trucks and trailers and moved the animals out of the pens and loaded them up for all the various destinations. The process involved sorting and loading animals into about 10 trucks and sending them off.

"Dan is the master of the trailer deal," Jensen said. "He can look at a truck and estimate how many animals to load in it." Mori is on the marketing and sales committee, and he runs a feedlot in Bruneau.

Every year many people volunteer their time and their vehicles to accomplish the animal disbursement.

"We never know for sure who is going to help on Sunday, until they arrive," Jensen said.

However, many of the same people continue to offer their help every year.

Some of the regular volunteers are Brent Bues of Kraup Livestock, Tyler Blackstock, Mary Blackstock, Mori, Lath Calloway, Matt Tindall, Jason Ineck, Clay Sauer, and Mike Martin.

The whole operation takes about half the day on the Sunday after fair to complete.

Then Scott Jensen can go home and relax.

County junior livestock sale breaks bank again

Another year, another record.

Although some observers expected a down year because of economic concerns, the Owyhee County Junior Livestock Sale blew past last year's record pace Saturday in Homedale.

With more animals heading to the auction block than any other year since 1992, this year's sale brought in $263,675. That beat last year's auction-day record of $207,500 by 27 percent or more than $56,000.

The last time 218 animals were sold at the auction was 22 years ago when each youth was allowed to sell two animals. Now, the fair entrants are allowed only one animal in the sales ring each year.

The breakdown included:

- 25 beef for $88,250
- 105 swine for $101,500
- 81 sheep for $67,500

• Seven goats for $6,425

The Extension Office staff now will work on collecting add-ons for the young producers, which will increase the revenue of this year's auction.

"We are grateful for families and businesses who continue to support our sale each year," University of Idaho Owyhee County Extension Office administrative assistant Debbie Titus said.

Titus also gave a "big thanks" to the auctioneers who donated their time Saturday afternoon as well as the volunteers who helped coordinate the youth and their animals, work the gates and spot buyers.

The county's 4-H and FFA club members ran buyer slips to the cashier.

Isaguirre named marshal for years of caring

by Karen Bresnahan

Margie Isaguirre has had a long career working “behind the scenes” for other people, and Saturday was her time to be in the spotlight.

As Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo Parade grand marshal, she and her grandchildren rode on a wagon pulled by a team of horses through downtown Homedale.

“My husband is going to be there to make sure none of them fall out,” she said with a laugh before Saturday’s big event.

Margie and her husband, Rufo, are semi-retired owners of the Homedale Realty, which she founded in 1970. The couple has three children, Rick Echevarria of Homedale, who operates the realty office, Johnna Hite of Nyssa Ore., and stepdaughter, Josie Lance of Fruitland.

Rufo was born in Biscaya, Spain, and came to the U.S. at the age of 29 to work as a sheepherder in Montana and then Idaho. Rufo and Margie met at a dance in Homedale. He retired after working 29 years for the Boise Project Board of Control in Wilder.

The couple has eight grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren, and two white Maltese dogs named Macy and Lulu.

Although they are both retired, the Isaguirres still work weekday afternoons at the office, and he takes care of the maintenance on the 27 rentals they manage at the Westmar Mobile Home Park in Homedale.

Isaguirre said she feels honored and excited about being parade marshal. She was nominated by community members who wrote letters to the fair board recommending her.

Homedale Realty owner known for compassion for tenants, paintings

Margie Isaguirre, center, waves from atop the grand marshal wagon during Saturday’s parade, which passed by her Homedale Realty office.

Parade coordinator Jolyn Green said Isaguirre was chosen because of her many years of volunteer work for 4-H and her work in assisting the homeless.

“She is so thrilled to get this,” her daughter Johnna Hite said. “She has been very active in the community for a lot of years and goes to all the area fairs.”

She was parade chairman 51 years ago for the 1963 Owyhee County Fair. For the occasion, she wore an old-fashioned dress and handed out the parade awards.

Isaguirre is known for her ability to find the resources to help people. She is often one of the first people to greet newcomers in town who are seeking a place to live. Others in town have continued to refer people to her, so she can help them with housing needs.

She has developed a reputation for giving assistance to homeless people. She once allowed a family to stay in the basement of her business temporarily.

“I just have to help people,” the businesswoman said.

“I’m a believer. My door is always open.”

Her eloquent, sincere manner and eagerness to help others is evident in her demeanor. People give her their trust, and she doesn’t let them down.

“I just do the best I can,” she said. “If I can’t help them, I find somebody who can.”

Isaguirre’s greatest passion is 4-H, according to her daughter.

“Mom has always said that every child needs a home and a pet,” Hite said. “She believe in 4-H with all her heart,” Hite said.

At times, her mother has gone to animal owners and made arrangements for children to be able to show them at the fair, Hite said.

“I just believe that every child should be in 4-H,” Isaguirre said. “It’s important because it has to have the family involved.”

Her favorite part of being part of 4-H is “sitting in the grandstands watching them show their animals.” She used to sit at the top of the grandstands to watch her daughter show.

All of her children were in 4-H, but her youngest, Josie, was active from the time she was 8, and really excelled at it, winning the large animal round robin about four times during her eight-year involvement.

Isaguirre volunteered to help the 4-H youth at the fair for many years. She is proud of the fact that her dad, Harvey Pegram, ran the large Caterpillar equipment that was used to clear the land when the Owyhee County Fairgrounds were built.

Another passion of hers is the American Legion Auxiliary. She has been a member for 62 years and once served as president. She joined in 1952, when her brother, Elmo, came home from serving in the Korean War.

“Being in the Auxiliary is very important to me,” she said.

Another important aspect of Isaguirre’s life has been the Owyhee County Heart Association. She began her work after learning that she has a heart murmur. In 1959, she was chairman of the organization and was named District III chairman for the 1961 Heart Fund Drive in Adams, Canyon, Gem, Owyhee, Payette and Washington counties. She received a certificate of merit for outstanding service in promoting the heart program.

Today, she has developed two heart murmurs and is forced to restrict her activity. She has found it hard to cut back on her activity level, because she enjoys being active and doing things such as flower gardening.

Isaguirre was born and raised in Homedale, and is the daughter of Harvey and Hazel Pegram. As a young girl, she lived briefly in various parts of Owyhee County because her father was in the construction business. She was active in the Owyhee Wranglers Riding Club and graduated from Homedale High School in 1948.

Right after high school, she married Johnny Echevarria and was married for 22 years before they divorced. She and Rufo were married in Winnemucca, Nev., and had their wedding blessed at St. Hubert’s Catholic Church in Homedale.

At the age of 19, she purchased her first three rental houses for $1,700. In over 60 years of managing rentals, she is proud to say that she has never turned anyone over to a collection agency.

“If they don’t have the money, they need it to feed their family and to find somewhere else to live,” she said.

Isaguirre has bought many Thanksgiving turkeys and Christmas toys for some of her renters. Some tenants have stayed with her for as long as 17 years.

During her real estate career, she worked 35 years. She received her sales license in 1966 and worked for Smith and Vogt, and then Vic Ford, before owning her own business.

Isaguirre is also an accomplished artist and is well-known for her oil paintings of mountain and country scenes. She first took lessons from the late Brad Bradford in 1977. She has won numerous blue ribbons and nine people’s choice awards, in addition to grand champion and best of show awards at area fairs.

MRW rolls out second QRU rig

Fire and EMS district plans fundraiser

Murphy-Reynolds-Wilson Fire will put a second Emergency Medical Quick Response Unit in operation soon.

The emergency response organization made the announcement as preparations continue for its seventh annual barbecue and auction fundraiser, which is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 23 at Givens Hot Springs.

The second QRU rig is a used vehicle received from Homedale Ambulance. MRW Auxiliary fundraising efforts and other donations paid for the equipment necessary to put the vehicle in service and into compliance with Idaho Emergency Medical Services Bureau guidelines.

MRW member Louis Monson said a $450 donation from Pickled Foot Ultra cross country runners provided a scoop stretcher. MRW supported the foot-racers during the Pickled Foot event earlier this year.

“The unit will be stationed at the Givens Hot Springs station and will give us a better response time in the west end of the district,” Monson said.

One of the big items on the district’s wish list is an off-road medical rescue vehicle. Monson said the district’s state EMS grant application went unfulfilled, so fundraising efforts will be focused on earning enough money to either buy or lease a UTV with a medical kit.

There are other needs that could be met with proceeds from the barbecue, auction and car show later this month.

“We are in the process of getting a grant for new SCBAs (self-contained breathing apparatus), and will need to come up with the co-pay on the grant,” Monson said.

The annual fundraiser at Givens Hot Springs will open at 3 p.m. for show and shine parking. It costs $8 to enter a car in the show, and each entrant receives a barbecue dinner ticket.

The barbecue starts at 4 p.m., and tickets are $8 per person or $20 per family. Folks can swim at Givens Hot Springs for half-price with the because of a barbecue ticket.

The live auction kicks off at 6 p.m. Some of the items up for bid include a Bighorn gun safe, a Traeger smoker grill, a vintage 1910 Victrola record player, antique and handcrafted items and several pieces of local art.

To obtain a show and shine entry form, contact MRW at info@mrwfire.org or MRW Fire BBQ, 11606 State Hwy 78, Givens Hot Springs, ID 83641.

“Interest for the show and shine has been good,” Monson said. “The closer we get, the more people and car groups we hear from.”

In addition to the dinner, auction and car show, Treasure Valley bluegrass band Idyltime will perform live music, and Monson said the band even plays some square dance tunes. There will be a mechanical bull ride and children’s entertainment such as games and a bounce house.

Austrian Settlement monument to be dedicated Sunday

Ceremony includes potluck dinner

An official dedication ceremony for the Austrian Settlement Monument will take place at 3 p.m. Sunday at Bette Uda City Park in Homedale.

The new monument was installed in the park in July, and it commemorates the settlement of seven Slovenian families and one German family in the Homedale area in 1914. More than 500 people attended a centennial celebration Feb. 14-15 at the Homedale Armory.

“It has been a long trip to set up the monument, but it has been well worth the wait,” Joe Demshar said.

He is former Owyhee County Historical Museum director and was head of the centennial committee that planned the celebration and monument.

The dedication will include a blessing by Father Arnold Miller of Our Lady of the Valley Catholic Church in Caldwell, followed by a potluck dinner.

The public is invited and all who attend should plan on bringing a dish, drink and their own tableware. People are encouraged to bring their own tables and lawn chairs, so they can set up in the shade.

Demshar said he hopes the monument “has drawn the Austrian Settlement community closer together.”

“We created a rather spectacular celebration together. Each of us now has a personal experience that we will all cherish for the rest of our lives,” he said.

He commented all the members of the planning committee for their efforts, and gave special thanks to Matt and Colleen Paxton, who he said made extra contributions to the effort.

Homedale pool in its final days of summer

With school starting Monday, the Homedale municipal swimming pool will close Saturday.

City Clerk and Treasurer Alice Pegram said pool participation surged this year with dozens of children receiving swimming lessons during the summer and more pool rentals for parties.

“We’ve had more positive feedback this year,” Pegram said.

It costs $2 per day to swim at the pool.

The pool is open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. today through Saturday.

The 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. time bloc is reserved for parties.

For more information on the pool, call City Hall at 337-4641.

Former Homedale man sentenced for theft

A former Homedale resident and his father were ordered to pay restitution and serve probation last week for the commercial sale of lodgepole posts and poles they had stolen from the Malheur National Forest.

Brent L. Burton, a 23-year-old who was listed as a Homedale resident when he entered a guilty plea to misdemeanor theft of government property in April, and his 46-year-old father, Terry K. Burton, must serve three years’ probation and pay restitution of $3,880 to the National Forest, Chief U.S. District Judge B. Lynn Winmill ruled Aug. 5.

Neither man can use a personal use permit to cut, load, remove or haul timber or other forest product from a National Forest for the duration of the probationary period.

Homedale Senior Citizens float wins sweepstakes award

The Homedale Senior Citizens float walked off with the Sweepstakes Award in the 1989 Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo Parade Saturday.

“We had a slightly smaller, but nice parade,” parade chairman Millie Shanley told The Owyhee Avalanche after the parade was over. There were 50 entries in this year’s parade.

“Everything went smoothly. Mike Nauman and the Idaho State Police really helped with the traffic flow, so we didn’t have the congestion problems we had last year,” she said.

The parade was lacking religious entries. “There was only one religious float this year, and that one was from a Nampa church,” she said. “Also, our commercial float entries were way down this year. However, the horse entries were about the same despite the Caldwell Rodeo Parade being the same day.”

She added, “Overall, I was pleased with the parade.”

Sweep’s cake baking ability carried 4-generations deep

Mildred Sweep (Mrs. Henry) of rural Homedale has been entering the Owyhee County Fair cake competition almost every year since the fair began — winning numerous blue ribbons for her annual efforts.

In more recent years, her granddaughter, Terri Spaulding of Middleton, has been entering the cake competition in an effort to beat her grandmother’s prize-winners.

This year, guess what happened? Terri’s 6-year-old daughter, Megan, also competed, and won the red second-place ribbon, beating her mother’s entry and ranking just behind her great-grandmother Mildred’s first-place entry.

Terri captured the third-place rank in the competition in which all three entered angel food cakes.

It was plainly a clean Sweep, making it apparent that winning is “just a piece of cake” to the fourth generation of this family.

But nobody’s toppling great-grandmother Mildred’s championship record anytime soon.

Jordan Valley comings and goings

Bill Lowry fulfilled a prestigious position as one member of a panel of eight persons who judged, placed and gave their reasoning for rating range bulls at the sire evaluation day held at the American National Hereford Conference.

The event took place in Omaha, Neb., and was in conjunction with the Junior Hereford Conference.

The Owyhee County Cattlemen’s Association meeting at Silver City attracted a number of cattle people from this area, including Vern and Bonnie Kershner (Vern is incoming president), Tim and Rosemary Lowry (Tim is vice-president) and board member Mark Mackenzie with his wife Michelle.

Also attending were the Pat Paynes, the Chuck Douglasses and Ben and Kathy Dougal.

Homedale woman helps victims of forest fires in Lowman

Alice Edmiston of Homedale spent three days in Boise recently aiding victims of the disastrous forest fires that destroyed some 25 homes and lodges at Lowman.

The local woman serves as co-chairman of disaster services for the Treasure Valley chapter of the American Red Cross and is designated Disaster Human Resources Service (DHRS) worker. Both volunteer jobs are in addition to her volunteer work locally as secretary-treasurer of the Homedale Ambulance Service and deputy coroner in Owyhee County.

Interviewed at the fairgrounds where the 4-H leader was serving as superintendent in the dairy barn, she said that the volunteers who were helping the Lowman families were making “a lot of calls” to help victims obtain clothing, shoes, food and emergency shelter. In appropriate cases, the Red Cross also works to help disaster victims obtain other essential items like eyeglasses and medications.

Homedale teaching staff is complete for 1964-65

The regular meeting of the Homedale school board was held Monday evening, Aug. 10 at the Washington grade school building, according to Jim Duncan, clerk.

Present besides board members were Joe LaMarche, Don Wisdom, heating engineer, Mr. Finch of the Blue Cross Insurance Co., Bob Ferdinand of Nampa, Herb Fritzley and Duane Ash.

Minutes were read and approved, and the board voted to provide hospital, medical and surgical insurance for all teachers in the district under the group plan presented by the Blue Cross Insurance Co.

It was decided to convert the present heating system of the high school to oil, which will be done under the new high school bid. Bills amounting to $3,909.46 were paid.

Insurance offers on blanket liability and vehicle insurance were opened. A bid of $849 offered by the Gem Agency and a bid of $755.26 from the Vance Agency were offered, and the board accepted the bid from Vance Agency.

The mill levies for 1964 were set: Maintenance and operation, 30 mills; Plant facilities, 5 mills; Plant facilities, 5 mills; 1952 bond 4 mills; 1956 bond, 5 mills; 1964 bond, 6½ mills.

Homedale teaching staff for 1964-65 will be:

Administration – Deward Bell, superintendent; Darrel Reisch, high school principal; Herbert Fritzley, elementary principal.

1st grade – Kathryn Matteson, Mary Davidson and Marian Doris Eier.

2nd grade – Ruth Wilson, Frances Echeverria and Virginia Hennis.

3rd grade – Elise Brown, Margaret Thompson and Betty Easley.

4th grade – Ruth Morse, Nydia Parkins and June Briggs.

5th grade – Donna Clapier and David Imel.

6th grade – Paul Holmes and Keith Leavitt.

Junior high – Sylvia Dennis, Harriet Kinder, Nolan Taggart and Duane Ash.

High school – James Barayasarra, Gaymon Bennett, Helen Brown, Ardath Chatterton, Dehyrl Dennis, Douglas Eier, Barbara Gardner, Kenneth Langdon, Winifred Robinson, Hollis Selders and Willis D. Vance.

Queen contest receives two new entries

Mrs. Sharon Samson, assistance manager of the Owyhee County Fair, reported Wednesday that two additional girls have entered the Fair Queen contest.

The girls are Dorothy Nanney, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Nanney of Grand View, and Patricia Percifield, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Percifield of Marsing.

Miss Nanney is sponsored by the Owyhee Wranglers saddle club and Miss Percifield is sponsored by the Owyhee County Democratic committee.

Karen Kushlan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kushlan, is reported as leading in the contest. She is sponsored by the St. Hubert’s Altar Society.

Bigger and better fair is expected at Homedale

Premium lists are now available at the fairgrounds office, Mrs. Sharon Samson, assistance manager, reported.

A bigger and better Owyhee County Fair is expected this year, according to Jess Wilson, fair manager. The four-day fair, combined with a rodeo, will start next Wednesday, August 19, and continue through Aug. 22.

Latest developments made in preparing for the expansion in the livestock exhibits and 4-H projects are installation of a new water line at the fairgrounds, building of additional pens in the sheep barn and the completion of portable bleachers to be used during the day by the fair and by the rodeo during the four night performances.

The fair office, which was housed inside the fairgrounds, has been moved into the newly acquired building next to the armory.

CREAL’S FLYING MACHINE. Many of our local readers will remember a carpenter named J.M. Creal who, in 1870 and ’71, used to shut himself up in the lower story of Leslie’s Photograph Gallery, in Silver City, for several days and nights at a time. Often, at the dead hour of night, a most unearthly racket could be heard in the building, and, at first, it was thought that Creal was communing with the spirits, but it turned out that he was only wrestling with a flying machine. He promised to let us see his aerial navigator, but he never did, and in December, 1871, he packed the concern in some half dozen trunks, and left with it for the Bluegrass region of Kentucky. We now hear of him in California, where he is still experimenting upon his aerial hobbyhorse. The Oakland Tribune has the following concerning Creal and his flying machine:

J. M. Creal, who has made aerial navigation a study for thirteen years, has constructed a balloon arrangement at Brooklyn with which he proposes to “fly through the air.” Wednesday morning (August 5th) the balloon was attached to a gas main, but owing to the unfavorable weather the experiment was not followed up. Mr. Creal had the rest of his apparatus on the ground, and was patiently biding his time. This apparatus consists simply of two movable parachutes attached to a pole, one above the other, and worked by stirrups from below. Imagine two umbrellas alternately sliding up and down on the same handle, all attached to a balloon. These parachutes are about eight feet in diameter, and constructed of strips of cloth that sort of overlap each other, separating when pushed up against the air and closing when brought down. They do not hang exactly horizontal, but incline forward, so as to get a better hold of the atmosphere. The operator’s weight is partly sustained by his arms, which are inserted through rings, after the manner of the stirrup below. When in motion he will — if at all — practically walk or run, through the air. The balloon is not able to carry his whole weight, but the power he expects to derive from the parachute appliances will carry the balance of the weight and at the same time enable him to go in any direction he chooses.

A SILVER CITY landlord thus lectured a fastidious boarder who found fault because there were hairs in the butter: “Those hairs, sir, are just as natural to Owyhee butter as butter is the natural product of milk. They are just as good and just as clean as the butter. All our butter comes from the cattle ranges of our Territory where flourishes that wonderful plant, the white sage. This white sage has many virtues. From it is manufactured a most wonderful and popular hair restorative. And, sir, in a country where all the cows feed on the white sage, do you think it likely that the butter will be bald-headed?” That boarder has gone in search of a country where the white sage groweth not.

OUR TELEGRAPH. The hole-digging and post-setting crew of the telegraph outfit reached the environs of Silver City on Thursday evening last, but the crew which finish the line as they advance have been delayed by unexpected obstacles and had only reached the Owyhee River with the wire. The first crew were immediately turned back to reinforce the wire crew, and rapid progress may now be expected. The superintendent informs us that the line will be completed and communications established with Winnemucca, not later than September 1st. It would have been completed today, had unforeseen obstacles not presented themselves.

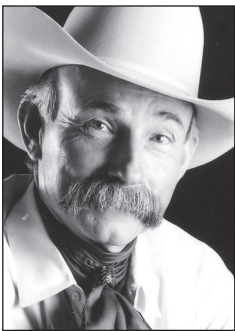

THE LATEST NEWS. Tilton’s suit against Beecher is to be brought in the Supreme Court of New York. It will be for damages and alleged criminal intercourse on the part of Beecher and Mrs. Tilton.

Formal demand will soon be made by the Secretary of the Treasury on the Pacific railway companies for five per cent of their net earnings.

Kullmann’s attempt to murder Bismarck has led to severe measures against Catholic societies in Prussia.

Commentary

Baxter Black, DVM

On the edge of common sense It’s a wonder you weren’t killed

When you hear cowboys tellin’ stories, it’s common for a listener to say, “It’s a wonder you weren’t killed!”

“Well, all I did was rope that sorry, no good, fightin’ bull with the crooked horn and tie him to a post in the corral, then throw another rope on him and tied it to the other side, then pulled him tight ’cause I was by myself, you know. I had him out there in the middle of the corral sort of stabilized to where I thought I could sneak up and lance that abscess. He was fightin’ it, of course, but I figgered I could at least take a stab at it, but I must have had too much slack in the line, or I underestimated how strong he was, ’cause when I got within a body length, he charged!”

“I don’t know if I underestimated my body length or what, but he came at me like a freight train! I jumped, and somehow got him by the tail. He kept tryin’ to hook me and pullin’ on those posts till they were leanin’ in. It gave him enough slack to come clear around. I’m still hangin’ on to his tail, but now both posts had been jerked plum outta the ground! He’s spinnin’, I’m whirlin’, we’re both gettin’ tangled in ropes, when he trips and flips head-first, clean over and slung me high enough that I sailed over the corral fence and hit the ground.

“I was lucky, though. I just missed the windmill toolbox. I could’a been hurt.”

“They told me the cow was in the pen. They weren’t sure how long the prolapse had been out. She was a big cow, over 1,200 pounds anyway, and she went into the chute OK. I climbed in behind her. The prolapse stuck out like a rolled up carpet somebody stuck a Chinese coolie hat on! It was a vaginal prolapse and the “pointed hat” was the everted cervix! It was big as a duffle bag. I gave her an epidural.

“A quick palpation, and I felt a big calf with both feet and a nose in the birth canal. It gets worse. Now I have to do a C-section before I can even think about replacing the prolapse. Thirty minutes later, we’ve taken the calf. The cow sags in the chute, I’m down in behind her to put this prolapse back in. I’m on my hands and knees trying to push it, the prolapse, I mean, uphill, and it won’t go. So, I decide we’ll let her out and do it on the ground.

“I open the back gate ... accidentally, she backs up one cow length and goes down. We end up actually unchaining the squeeze chute, pulling it out of the way with a tractor, then using 1-inch cotton rope we drag the cow out. I’m crawling over her to get my rope back. I have one boot in the open loop of the bowline knot trying to push it when she rises like a Titan missile! I’m jerked under her and she drags me across the pen, I’m right between her hind legs looking up at the prolapse, my head banging up and down and flopping back and forth from starboard to port.

“It could’a been worse, I guess, if I hadn’t come loose when she jumped the cattle guard.”

“Billy slammed on the brakes to avoid a deer jumpin’ across the road! The horse trailer jack-knifed and we hit a guardrail, stopped us like we’d run into a boxcar full of scrap iron. My head hit the windshield on the passenger’s side and left a dent in the glass big as a punch bowl!”

“Knocked me out. Thank goodness I was wearin’ my hat.”

Letter to the editor Bruneau-Grand View levy failure will impact community

This letter is to ask for your support of the Bruneau-Grand View School District Supplemental Levy on Aug. 26. By voting “YES” we are making a smart investment in our schools. This levy provides funding for all three schools to remain open for the 2014-2015 school year. Elementary schools in these local communities are vital, not only for the children but the residents as well. Schools are assets for businesses, landowners and home owners. Having a school close to your property increases the value of your property.

This school district is not the only district in the State of Idaho that requires a supplemental levy to operate. Currently there are 95 out of 115 districts operating on supplemental levies. Our children in this district deserve the same opportunities as others they will compete with as adults.

Failure of this levy has far-reaching consequences that will affect everyone. Options of failure are borrowing money from a bank (that will have to be paid off with a levy), the State takes control of the district, or a forced consolidation with another district. None of those choices are good ones for our children.

It’s essential that we, the voters, take the time to educate ourselves as to the ramifications if the levy is not passed.

Levy election letters

The Owyhee Avalanche will accept letters to the editor pertaining to the Aug. 26 Bruneau-Grand View School District supplemental levy election until noon on Friday.

The usual letters to the editor guidelines apply, including letters must be no more than 300 words and letters must include contact information, including a phone number, of the letter-writer. Submit by:

- Email to jon@owyheeavalanche.com
- Fax to (208) 337-4867
- Mail to P.O. Box 97, Homedale ID, 83628
- Or drop off at the Avalanche office at 19 E. Idaho Ave., in Homedale

For more information, call (208) 337-4681.

Please join me by voting “YES” for the Supplemental Levy on Aug. 26 for the Bruneau-Grand View School District. It is the right thing to do for our kids, schools, and communities.

Reader’s opinion Owyhee County friends are to be cherished

by Don Barnhill

Most times in life, one doesn’t fully express that which should have been done along the way.

I came to the Owyhees in the fall of 1990 to help resurrect a troubled ranch. In doing so, I unknowingly had to face problems far greater than anticipated. I persevered, and I am still here.

What I found along the way were people and families of the greatest character, compassion, friendliness and openness. I found new friends.

The first 18 years of my love affair with this county were wrought with all the agony that could be thrown upon me. The last seven have been blessed with the best of neighbors on every side. Along the way, I have been rewarded in getting to know some of the finest people on the planet.

The rich history, the poignant interaction of the multi-generational families with their resources, the sheer determination of you individuals to carve out a better “place” for the next generation to inherit, the love with which you folks embrace your lives — I shall always treasure and have learned by your examples of living.

A famous philosopher once said that one who does not intervene in an injustice is no better than the perpetrator of that injustice. I have always tried to embrace that philosophy. I am at peace with the knowledge that one cannot befriend all people. I am also far richer in my life for the friendship of those of you who allowed me into your world.

This spring, I received a kick by a bull. Intended for my face, I blocked it with my arm. A severely broken arm was a reminder that in the blink of an eye we can be gone.

I wish to thank all of you who have enriched my life. The others, I forgive.

In this perilous time of government overreach and bad decisions by our leaders we must react with complete and unwavering resistance to that which is unjust. To that end I am dedicated, propped up by the sense that my friends are worth the fight.

Bless you all who have made my life fuller for knowing you.

From Washington Keep gun owners’ info private Concerns with how far the federal government will go in collecting and storing private, personal information are more than understandable. These concerns are validated when we see examples of federal agencies overstepping into our personal lives, such as a federal agency collecting and monitoring massive amounts of data on individuals’ personal financial accounts. We must continue to watch the watchdogs and not allow the federal government to further encroach on our personal privacy. Helping to ensure the protection of our Second Amendment rights includes making certain that federal funding cannot be used for the establishment of firearms registries.

Although current law prohibits the federal government from storing information acquired during the firearms background check process, there is nothing in place to keep federal funding from being used by non-federal entities to collect and store personally identifiable information related to the sale, purchase or ownership of a firearm. The release of personal information of gun owners for inappropriate purposes is cause for concern. Storage of such information in so-called gun registries is simply an invasion of privacy for citizens lawfully practicing their constitutional right. It is essential that the federal government does not play a role in such activities and that taxpayer resources are used in a manner that is consistent with federal policy.

That is why I joined 14 fellow senators, including Sen. Jim Risch (R-Idaho), in co-sponsoring S. 2105, the

Visualize your debt snowball list to stay motivated

Dear Dave,

I make $30,000 a year. I've just started Baby Step 2 of your plan, and I'm paying off my debts from smallest to largest. I have $55,000 in debt, including $15,000 on a car loan. I recently picked up a part-time job to help pay down the debt, but sometimes I'm working 70 hours a week. Do you have any recommendation for staying motivated during this process?

— Brandon

Dear Brandon,

I understand, man. We can all get tired and run short on motivation from time to time. There's an old saying that fatigue makes cowards of us all. I know sometimes, when I'm traveling a lot, I can lose some boldness, strength or compassion when I get tired. So fatigue is a real issue if you're working long hours and facing additional pressure.

The balance on your car is awfully high. My general rule is that you don't want to own vehicles equaling half or more of your annual income. If I'm in your shoes, I'd sell that car and move down to a little beater for a while. I'm not talking about a rattletrap piece of junk, just something lots less expensive. You can find a decent used car to fit the bill, and that would get rid of a big chunk of debt in a hurry.

At this point, I think you just need to feel like you're making some measureable progress. Sometimes, that means throwing a stick of dynamite into the middle of your life. Also, try keeping your debt snowball list where you'll see it on a regular basis. I knew one lady who kept in on the fridge, so she could look at all the little red lines drawn through things she had paid off. It was a visual reminder of the progress she had made, and it provided motivation to keep working hard and become debt-free!

—Dave

Dear Dave,

Do you recommend a credit freeze in order to protect against identity theft?

— Eric

Dear Eric,

I absolutely recommend doing that, especially if you're not borrowing money anymore. However, putting a freeze on your credit report only provides partial protection against identity theft.

Identity theft is where someone, for example, signs up for a credit card in your name. If Joe Crook signs an application with your name and address, and the credit card company issues the card without checking — they blind-issue cards about seven out of 10 times — then the card will be issued to the thief. Having your credit frozen does nothing to stop that from happening. Still, if they check your credit and it's frozen, chances are they won't issue the card.

I'd also recommend having a good identity theft protection program in place. I have it on myself and all my team members at the office. If you don't have this, and someone gets a card in your name, the credit card company will demand that you pay the bill. You can insist it's not you, but that won't do much good. Then, you'll have to go through the hassle of filling out affidavits and police reports.

You may get out of paying for it in the end, but you'll still have to spend dozens, if not hundreds, of hours dealing with the credit card company trying to get the whole mess straightened out!

Obama's lawlessness will cost Democrats in November

by Tom Toth

Republicans have been gifted the opportunity to set themselves up for a landslide victory in the 2014 midterms, thanks exclusively to another one of Obama's lawless pen-and-phone executive actions. Will the Republicans take their chance to go for the jugular and sweep the Democrats in the November elections?

As this is being written, phone lines on Capitol Hill have been overrun with livid voters, beside themselves and cynically unsurprised that President Barack Obama is preparing yet another executive action that suspends the laws of the land.

This time, Obama is simply implementing an illegal immigration amnesty he's petulantly demanded Congress enact since his election. According to reports, Obama's executive order will suspend most deportations, grant legal status to millions here illegally, and excuse visa overstays. In essence, the Chief Executive of the United States, whose primary and sworn Constitutional purpose is to faithfully execute the law of the land, is again refusing to do so, establishing fiat laws and removing those laws he doesn't feel like enforcing.

For millions, this is a step too far. Regardless of any Republican's opinion on immigration strategies, "comprehensive" or otherwise, Barack Obama's plan for historic executive overreach should be met by nothing less than a full political assault fueled by the righteous indignation of every American who will stand up to the failed leadership in the White House. This president has told the world that, because he has lost the political and legislative fight on his immigration plan, he will take legislative power from the people's representatives and do what he wants, no matter what the law says.

Of course, this isn't a pure temper tantrum from the Oval Office — it is, as is the case for every word and decision that's flowed from the most powerful office the world since 2009, a political calculation. During the past several weeks of fundraising and campaigning, Obama has incessantly referenced Democrats' habitual failure to vote in midterm elections. This particular decision on immigration is undoubtedly a desperate Hail Mary attempt from the White House to stake the political capital of his party in a gamble on hoped-for excitement from the party's leftist base.

It is nothing less than a callous attempt to create a voting bloc that will turn out en masse for Democrats, allowing the party to hold the Senate and retake the House. Yet, history is not on their side. The trend against unpopular, lame-duck incumbent presidents in midterm election is undeniable. Obama and the Democrats are desperate, and this move should be expected to come back to bite them — hard.

There are millions of principled, politically aware conservatives who often choose, for one reason or another, to not participate in every election. And, although turnout in support of Democrats is even worse than Republicans when there's not a presidential candidate on the ballot, the aforementioned conservatives remain non-automatic votes in the absence of a candidate or policy issue that warrants their political action. They voted, however, in 2010, when Obama and Democrats in both Congressional chambers force-fed the wildly unpopular Affordable Care Act (or Obamacare) down the collective throats of the people, necessitating in the minds of conservatives a massive grassroots response to curtail the historic government overreach being perpetuated by this radical community organizer in the White House.

The media, shocked at this unprecedented groundswell of everyday people deciding to vote conservative, called these people the "Tea Party." Obama, ignoring the electoral lesson the American people gave his party in 2010, has chosen to give those same people — already furious about the border crisis and the administration's lawless executive actions to date — a reason to reignite the passionate fight against the administration's policies and its flagrant disregard for the law.

Republicans, then, need only take advantage. Some, for myriad reasons, remain apprehensive to pursue recently proposed structures of immigration reform efforts in Congress. Others are prepared and motivated to pursue a conservative form of immigration reform that would strengthen the border and restore the rule of law. But regardless of their recent stances, Obama's action has given the GOP a unifying purpose to get behind the American people, win a landslide election, and return to Washington with an electoral mandate rarely seen from a midterm election.

If Obama follows through with the executive orders as expected, Democrats and the White House will deny that immigration is the reason for the heavy Democrat losses — and they'll be partially correct.

The United States, historically governed by the rule of law, will as a whole experience a referendum from those whom love this nation of laws in direct response to Obama's lawlessness and put a functional end to his administration. Political associates beware.

✓ Gun owners: Legislation would reiterate prohibition of list of owners

Gun-owner Registration Information Protection (GRIP) Act. This legislation would reaffirm existing law that bars the federal government from storing information acquired during the firearms background check process. The GRIP Act would also explicitly prohibit any federal funding from being used to contribute to non-federal gun registries. The legislation does not include any limitations related to state recordkeeping for permitting, law enforcement-issued firearms or lost or stolen firearms. This one-sentence legislation would provide straightforward protection of our constitutional right:

"No department or agency of the United States shall support, by funding or other means, the establishment or maintenance, by a State or political subdivision of a State, of any comprehensive or partial listing of firearms lawfully possessed or lawfully owned by private persons, or of persons who lawfully possess or own firearms, except in the case of firearms that have been reported to the State or political subdivision as lost or stolen."

The National Instant Check System (NICS) was established in 1998 as a reasonable measure to keep guns out of the hands of those who have a history of criminal behavior. Congress did not intend for it to become a method of developing a national gun registry or allowing the federal government to compile or assist in compiling files on law-abiding citizens.

Congress has consistently pushed back against efforts to retain information gathered through the background checks or levy fees for the checks. Federal law requires the destruction of records on approved firearms sales within 24 hours. I will continue to support the protection offered citizens in the Constitution and minimize federal involvement in the lives of citizens.

✓ Homedale: Budget hearing slated for tonight’s meeting fund is running at a deficit of approximately $79,000. User fees charged by the city haven’t been increased in about a decade, she said.

Meanwhile, the amount of property tax revenue the city will use to fuel its FY 2015 budget will rise only about $10,000 over the current year, and it will account for only 10 percent of the entire budget.

The proposed budget, set at $3,540,338, represents a 2.74 percent increase over the current appropriations of $3,446,166. The public hearing will be held during the council’s first meeting of the month at 6 tonight inside City Hall, 31 W. Wyoming Ave.

The city plans to utilize $357,700 in property taxes, which is an increase of about $10,500 over FY 2014. Of that, $341,000 will be used in the General Fund and $16,700 will help fund Parks and Recreation.

General Fund support increases are proposed for streets and highways (40 percent) and the police department (7.3 percent), and the council plans to bump the city’s support for the public library by 3.4 percent. All three increases will come out of the General Fund budget, which is set to rise 7.8 percent to $724,428.

Even with an infusion of nearly $25,000 in General Fund monies, the Streets and Highways budget is set to shrink by about $15,000. The council will consider increasing the department’s appropriations for miscellaneous capital improvement projects by $25,000.

The council has approved salary increases for some library staff for the second consecutive year. Pay for the library director, assistant librarian and library clerk has risen 6.1 percent in the past two years.

Meanwhile, the police department pay line will decrease 4.4 percent between FY14 and FY15. More than $300,000 of HPD’s total budget of $433,809 will cover salaries and benefits.

The HPD budget is scheduled to increase by more than $33,000, but $25,000 of that constitutes the purchase of a new patrol car.

Nearly 33 percent of the city’s $798,321 water department budget — $262,016 — is earmarked for payments on the 2006 improvement bond.

Likewise, the council plans to make two payments on the 2006 sewer improvement bond, totaling $220,000. The extra $110,000 payment constitutes the entire net increase in the sewer fund’s $446,500 capital improvements budget. The sewer department budget overall will rise nearly $87,000.

The council granted a rate increase to garbage contractor Westown’s Disposal Inc., which accounts for the $15,000 increase in user revenue for the sanitation fund.

✓ Four-day: Gooding and Blaine aren’t open five days a week had results one might expect.

“The employees are all for it, but we would have to have the courts open,” she told the commissioners.

Third District Court motion days are held two Fridays each month.

The four-day week would affect the Marsing county annex as well as the Division of Motor Vehicles office inside Grand View City Hall.

Owyhee County Treasurer Brenda Richards said a four-day schedule could see county offices opening 30 minutes earlier and closing 30 minutes later each day like Gooding County. That wouldn’t affect DMV customers because the state computer system is operational from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Mountain Time five days a week.

Richards told the commissioners that closing on Friday could cut down on the number of hours employees miss making doctor’s appointments, and she pointed out that every major school district surveying Owyhee County children is now on a four-day schedule of some sort.

District 2 Commissioner Kelly Aberasturi noted that some companies have tried four-day work weeks only to return to the traditional five-day format because customer service suffered.

County Assessor Brett Endicott pointed out that Canyon County DMV tried a four-day week, but eventually returned to a five-day week.

“Maybe you should go back to your respective departments and discuss this, but remember we’re here for the public,” Aberasturi said.

“I’m not against it because I think it’s the way to do things because it lessens costs,” the Homedale resident added.

Aberasturi also pointed out that he already hears complaints from the public because the county offices in Murphy are closed during the lunch hour. He said people are disappointed when they drive a long distance from another part of the county only to arrive five minutes into the lunch hour and realize they have to wait until 1 p.m. to take care of their business.
