Marsing Chamber of Commerce makes a comeback

New president, new agenda emerge from special meeting

The man who wanted to ensure the Marsing Chamber of Commerce continued to help the business community is the 72-year-old organization’s new president.

Steve Derricott was elected president during a meeting he organized Thursday at the Sandbar Community Room at Marsing City Hall.

The meeting was called to discuss steps toward revitalizing the Chamber after a May meeting in which three members had voted to dissolve the organization, which had only 10 businesses in membership at the time.

Derricott said that the group hopes to inspire renewed interest in Chamber activities as well as encourage more involvement from new and existing Marsing businesses.

“The business community needs to help one another,” the Gfeller Casemakers co-owner said.

Chamber members defined the role of the organization as a support system for local businesses, with an emphasis on promoting healthy economic development while reevaluating what local businesses need in a changing economy.

“We have to start somewhere,” Jeanette Bowman, who took over as acting Chamber president after the former president’s resignation via Facebook in April.

Derricott was elected after a unanimous vote to reconsider the recent dissolution. Bowman, who abstained from the vote for a new president, will remain vice-president, and Mike Sprinkel will serve as treasurer.

The Chamber is seeking a secretary. Interested parties can email marsingchamber@gmail.com.

A meeting schedule was established, too. Chamber meetings will take place from 6 p.m., to 7 p.m., on the second Thursday of each month inside the Sandbar Community Room at City Hall, 18 Sandbar Ave.

The next meeting is set for Thursday, July 14.

The group said they see the Chamber’s role as a resource for local businesses and to promote economic direction, evaluate and support what local businesses need, host events and trainings, act as a support system, and encourage communication.

The fact that many new businesses are home-based rather than having a traditional storefront may be a challenge, and members understand the Chamber may need to reevaluate current outreach/communication methods.

The current Chamber membership is low relative to the fact that there are 74 licensed businesses in town, according to data from the City of Marsing.

Members discussed the possibility of shifting from an event-driven organization to becoming more agenda-driven.

During the meeting, City Clerk and Treasurer Jolyn Thompson said the Chamber contact information could be included in materials distributed to new businesses when they apply for a city license.

The new president asked Sue Showalter to act as a subcommittee to advance ideas for community involvement and events.

The 10 current Chamber members include Derricott, Bowman, Sprinkel and Showalter as voting members, while others include Debbie Carter, Thompson and Mayor Chad Sevy, and Shantra Hannibal.

Probation terms vary in four drunk driving convictions

Four area residents were recently sentenced in misdemeanor drunk driving cases inside Homedale’s magistrate courtroom.

Magistrate Judge Shane Darrington presided over all four cases.

- Wayne Allen Bayes, 54, of Wilder was placed on two years unsupervised probation and had his driver’s license suspended for a year after entering a plea agreement on a charge of his second driving under the influence offense within 10 years.
- Bayes must serve eight days in jail. Darrington gave him credit for the two days he spent in jail after his March 13 arrest by Homedale Police. The judge suspended the balance of a one-year sentence.
- Bayes also must pay $1,000 combined in fines and court costs.
- The prosecution dismissed a misdemeanor resisting arrest charge.

A Homedale Police officer stopped Bayes, who was driving a Ford F350, after he failed to signal while turning onto northbound U.S. 95 and then couldn’t maintain his lane of travel, according to court records.

Bayes’ blood-alcohol concentration measured .153 percent in a Breathalyzer test, according to the probable cause affidavit.

- Homedale resident Mark Timothy Daniels, 67, must serve one year of supervised probation and pay $647.50 in fines after the court accepted his guilty plea to DUI.
- An Owyhee County Sheriff’s deputy arrested Daniels shortly before 9 p.m., on Feb. 19 on Buntrock Road west of Marsing.
- Darrington suspended Daniels’ driver’s license for 180 days and ordered him to pay $400 in court costs. The man was given credit for five days spent in county jail, and Darrington suspended the balance of a six-month jail term.

According to the deputy’s probable cause affidavit, he observed Daniels’ Subaru Forester make a “hard right turn” before it came to rest on a berm in a gas station parking lot near the U.S. Highway 95-Idaho highway 55 intersection.

The deputy stated that Daniels refused to perform most of the field sobriety tests or provide a breath sample. The deputy also said he found 0.6 grams of marijuana and drug paraphernalia in the vehicle.

The prosecution dismissed the paraphernalia charge with the plea agreement.

- Another Wilder resident, Wayne Simeon Brovont, was placed on two years supervised probation at his sentencing for drunk driving.

The 22-year-old already served 11 days in jail and received a suspended sentence for the remaining 169 days of a six-month term. He also must pay $297.50 in fines and $352.50 in court costs.

Prosecution dismissed a misdemeanor driving without privileges charge as part of a plea deal.

Brovont was arrested by a Homedale Police sergeant after midnight on Feb. 21 when the police officer observed the man driving a white Honda Civic slowly down the alleyway between Owyhee and Idaho avenues.

The plates on the vehicle, according to the officer’s affidavit, came back to a blue Chevy pickup.

After making contact with Brovont, the officer discovered that the man was driving on a license suspended because of a previous DUI.

Brovont’s BAC measured .120 after a test administered when the officer detected alcohol on the man’s breath.

- Melissa Ann Prickett, 56, of Homedale was ordered to jail for eight days and was placed on two years supervised probation after her DUI conviction. Her driver’s license has been suspended for six months, and she must pay $597.50 in fines and $416.50 in court costs.
- Darrington gave her credit for two days spent in county jail and suspended 170 days of a six-month jail sentence.
- Prickett’s misdemeanor charge was amended from an excessive DUI.
- An Idaho State Police trooper arrested Prickett just before 3 p.m., on Feb. 12 after initiating a traffic stop at West Owyhee Avenue and North Main Street in Homedale.
- The trooper initiated the stop after observing Prickett in a silver 2003 Subaru Forester make two stop violations, according to an affidavit.
- Prickett’s BAC measured .216, nearly three times the legal limit of .08.

Assessor warns of property tax scam

There have been no reported local incidents yet, but Owyhee County Assessor Tiffany Nettleton wants property owners to know about a scam that has cropped up in the valley.

“There is a property tax reduction scam that appears to be contained to Ada County,” Nettleton reported in an email Thursday. “However, it could happen here, and I don’t want our citizens adversely affected.”

Nettleton said that the county assessor’s office is the only place that homeowners and land owners contact for potential property tax reduction. Call (208) 495-2817 to reach the assessor’s office.

“We are happy to help them,” Nettleton said.

Nettleton’s chief deputy assessor is Kevin Bowen. The office is open from 8:30 a.m., to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

According to a warning from Attorney General Lawrence Wasden and the Idaho State Tax Commission, individuals have reported receiving a flyer in the mail about Idaho Property Tax Reduction program.

Although the flyer looks official and implies it’s from the State Tax Commission or another government entity, the document is fake, officials warn.

The flyer is an attempt to get personal information from Idahoans. It contains inaccurate details about the state’s property tax reduction program.

Anyone who receives the flyer should disregard it and shred it before discarding it. Do not call the number listed on the flyer.

Call the Owyhee County Assessor’s Office or the Idaho State Tax Commission at (208) 334-7736 with questions about the property tax reduction program. The tax commission can be reached toll free from Owyhee County at (800) 334-7756.

Call the tax commission anytime you receive questionable tax information.

Hearing slated for GV hook-up fee increases

Public can learn more about community club grant progress

Two public hearings will be held during next Wednesday’s Grand View City Council meeting.

The council is also scheduled to appoint an interim mayor in the wake of Danny Martinez’s resignation. Council president Jon Pennington has been presiding at council meetings for the past three months.

The council meeting will begin at 6 p.m., but 15 minutes beforehand a public hearing will convene to provide a status report on the Grand View Community Club improvement project.

The club received the old St. Henry’s Catholic Church, and organizers have been working to convert the building into a community center.

The city sponsored a $170,000 Idaho Community Development Block Grant to help upgrade the old building.

Among the projects financed with the money from the Idaho Department of Commerce are an upgrade to the HVAC system, establishing Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) accessibility and replacing the community club’s flooring.

Progress on the project will be reviewed during the 5:45 p.m., public hearing, and all the expenditures to date will be summarized.

The remaining work, changes to the scope of work, the project budget and the remaining work schedule will be shared as well.

Verbal and written comments will be accepted in the days before the hearing and during the hearing.

Information to be shared during the hearing can be requested beginning Friday.

For more information, contact City Clerk/Treasurer Kathy Brown at (208) 834-2700 Monday through Thursday or by email at cityofgrandview@speedyquick.net.

Once the council meeting begins, a public hearing on “impending” sewer and water new hook-up rates will be held.

Currently, new hook-ups cost $1,000 for both sewer and water, but the proposed new fee schedule would impose a $2,000 for hook-up of each type of service.

Rimrock Sr. Center sets benefit yard sale

A local family recently donated several household items, so the Rimrock Senior Center has decided to have a fundraising yard sale.

The sale will take place from 8 a.m., to 3 p.m., on Saturday at the senior center, 525 Main St., in Grand View.

In addition to what board members are calling a “huge sale,” there will be a silent auction with antique dishes and other collectibles up for bid.

This is the first senior center fundraiser since the COVID-19 pandemic struck.

For more information, call Nola Boone at (208) 590-9441.

For more general information about the senior center, call coordinator Ellie Gillett at (208) 598-3403.

Grand View road work starts

✓ Project: Leading Idaho infrastructure funding makes work possible

Gov. Brad Little's Leading Idaho infrastructure improvement initiative.

In Murphy, a capital improvement plan will be developed to address the aging infrastructure, source capacity, and distribution system to achieve regulatory compliance.

The Leading Idaho infrastructure plan also lists three other Owyhee County projects that have money available:

- Grand View drinking water project — $1,574,160
- Grand View wastewater project — $2,354,352
- Bruneau Water & Sewer

District wastewater project — $2,053,092

Grand View's funding opportunities were reported in The Owyhee Avalanche last week. At that time, DEQ grants and loans bureau chief MaryAnna Peavey said the two Grand View projects on the "fundable" list were eligible for money, but that the city council still has to apply for the funds.

The Bruneau project is also on the fundable list, so the water and sewer board will have to apply to receive the money.

The Idaho Board of Environmental Quality approved the DEQ's criteria and fundable list last week.

The majority of the $300 million ($285 million) is earmarked for infrastructure projects like those in Grand View and Bruneau.

The $40,000 available for the Murphy project is part of a $6 million pool DEQ has set aside for planning studies for 135 water projects.

✓ Nielsen: Road should be reopened in early August after oil and chips

Herman said the detour route will be Graveyard Point Road to Sage Road and turning left.

If the road isn't closed for a sufficient amount of time after the construction, the washboard conditions with which motorists currently deal will return, Herman said.

The $64,000 project includes $14,000 in gravel, $38,000 for placing the gravel and shaping the road, and $12,000 for hauling the gravel.

Marsing-based Showalter Construction will place the gravel, and the highway district crew will oil the road on July 22.

Another oil application and chip seal will take place on Aug. 5.

The road will be opened after the chip seal.

Herman said the new road surface will be 28 feet wide with two 12-foot lanes and 2-foot shoulders.

For more information on the project, call Herman at (208) 906-6235.

Find optimal livestock techniques at Lost River Grazing Academy

One of the biggest challenges in the cattle industry is the art of providing cattle with a quality diet that will help them grow most effectively, all while keeping costs low. Feed accounts for over 50 percent of the total cost of production on a typical cow-calf operation. With current hay prices, feed cost is likely an even higher proportion of annual operating expenses.

Scott Jensen

Cassandra Moody

Grazing standing forage is the most cost-effective way to feed cattle, but to do so in a successful and sustainable manner, pasture must be well-managed. By not practicing good grazing management practices, livestock producers may be losing out on 50 percent of potential forage production. While it may seem daunting to implement tactics such as Management-intensive Grazing, there is a great program that can prepare you to use these sustainable practices in your operation.

The Lost River Grazing Academy (LRGA) is a four-day workshop for livestock producers who have a desire to increase their forage productivity, animal performance, and income. Participants in the program learn about nutrient cycling, irrigation, succession, power fencing, low-stress livestock handling, estimating and allocating forage, designing grazing systems, extending the grazing season, grazing economics, and animal health topics.

One unique aspect of the program: It's a collaborative and hands-on experience.

Participants are separated into teams based on experience so that each team has a mixture of grazing management experience. This allows team members to also learn from one another. On these teams, participants will have the opportunity to engage in hands-on activities such as ranch planning exercises and grazing assignments.

Each team is given a "mini ranch" made up of a few acres of grass as well as 10-20 cows. The team will have specific goals in mind and will be able to see those play out throughout the workshop. Additionally, some friendly competition is added into the mix through some educational contests.

An activity or assignment follows each LRGA discussion or lesson. This helps participants use critical-thinking skills to solve problems and apply what they have learned.

When the program concludes, participants feel better prepared to implement these skills on their operations because of the real-life experiences they have at the Lost River Grazing Academy.

Former Lost River Grazing Academy participant Barbara Redd said, "This program changed our life. We used to spend summer nights baling hay and worrying about every passing storm. Now we sleep at night and are thankful for every bit of moisture that falls."

The 2022 Lost River Grazing Academy will be held Sept. 13-16 at the Eagle Valley Ranch in Salmon.

Court orders probation for felony drug convictions

Three people who entered guilty pleas to felony drug charges were placed on lengthy probation recently.

All three reached plea agreements with prosecutors before their sentencing.

- Grand View resident Eric Joseph Berg’s disposition for felony controlled substance possession was filed on his 53rd birthday on June 28. Third District Judge Randall S. Grove placed him on three years felony probation and suspended a five-year state prison term.

Berg was originally charged with felony controlled substance possession with the intent to manufacture or deliver after a probation officer visited a residence on Feb. 25.

According to an Owyhee County Sheriff’s lieutenant’s probable cause affidavit, a search of the house turned up 13 grams of methamphetamine, plastic baggies and scales.

As part of a plea deal, the prosecution dropped a drug paraphernalia possession misdemeanor. Berg was ordered to pay $635.50 in court costs.

A female at the house, identified as Carlie Marie Smith, faces sentencing on July 22. She was originally charged with felony intent to manufacture or deliver meth and misdemeanor paraphernalia possession.

- Two individuals arrested during a traffic stop by Homedale Police received felony probation.

Alyssa M. Ostermeyer, 28, of Mesa, Ariz., got three years felony probation after agreeing to plead guilty to felonies of unlawful possession of a weapon by a convicted felon and controlled substance possession.

Grove suspended a prison term of two to four years. Ostermeyer must pay $595.50 in court costs. A felony drug possession charge and misdemeanor marijuana possession count were dropped.

The woman was taken into custody after a traffic stop just after 9 p.m., on Dec. 3 near the intersection of South Main Street and U.S. Highway 95.

The responding officer reported finding several forms of illicit drugs after his K-9 alerted to the presence of narcotics, including 10 grams of marijuana, 14.5 grams of cannabis flour, 100 milliliters of liquid oxycodone, and 21 amphetamine salt combo pills. He also found $7,000 in cash. A 9mm Glock handgun also was recovered.

The officer initiated the stop after clocking Ostermeyer driving 51 mph in the 35 mph zone of U.S. 95.

Dante Dierre Richardson, for whom records do not indicate a hometown, was a passenger in the vehicle.

He received four years felony probation and a prison term of two to six years was suspended. Richardson was charged with two felony counts of controlled substance possession, while a felony weapons charge and misdemeanor possession charges for marijuana and drug paraphernalia were dropped.

Richardson received credit for 113 days spent behind bars, but was ordered to pay $1,115 in court costs.

Man sentenced for chase that ended in a manure pond

Felony probation, suspended sentence; woman faces charges

A 24-year-old Caldwell man who led authorities on a high-speed chase received a suspended penitentiary sentence last week.

Cristian Humberto Escalera was placed on five years supervised probation after agreeing to enter a guilty plea to a felony charge for fleeing Owyhee County Sheriff's deputies in a vehicle after they attempted a traffic stop in Marsing on Jan. 19.

Escalera received his punishment last week in the courtroom of Third District Judge Randall S. Grove.

Grove suspended a state penitentiary term of two to five years and imposed 455 days in jail. Escalera had served 94 days in Owyhee County Jail, and Grove suspended 271 days.

The man's driver's license was suspended for a year and he was ordered to pay $890 in court costs.

Escalera also entered a guilty plea to misdemeanors for drug paraphernalia possession and failing to stop or leaving the scene of a property accident.

The prosecution dismissed a felony for drug possession and misdemeanor charges of reckless driving, providing false identification to a law enforcement officer and malicious injury to property.

A two-person team of sheriff's deputies stopped a white

Chevrolet Impala at 12:30 a.m., on Jan. 19, about 6½ hours after a records check by one of the deputies revealed that the vehicle's registration had expired nearly six months earlier.

According to court records, Escalera sped off as one deputy was checking for the driver's proper name and the other deputy was walking back to the patrol vehicle with the driver's license, which Escalera originally had said he didn't have.

The ensuing pursuit saw Escalera reached speeds of 80 and 90 mph in a 25 mph zone, according to the deputy's report. The vehicle hit 100 mph in a 55 mph zone and Escalera veered into oncoming lanes and braked suddenly in an attempt to cause an accident with the pursuing patrol vehicle.

After driving into a local dairy, Escalera crashed into calf stables, but continued driving until the Chevy crashed into a manure pond.

A foot pursuit began before Escalera was apprehended. A female passenger was also taken into custody where the car had become disabled.

A Homedale Police drug detection K-9 was dispatched and located presumptive methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia in the woman's purse. Paraphernalia and bullets were also located during the vehicle search.

The deputy reported that the baggie of meth was lost when it fell into a manure pond before he could place it in his evidence bag. Residue in pipes tested positive for meth.

The woman, Angela Hernandez, said the drugs and paraphernalia were hers.

Hernandez was booked on felony charges of meth possession and aiding and abetting a person trying to flee law enforcement. She was also charged with misdemeanors for aiding and abetting and drug paraphernalia possession.

Three court hearings have been continued in Hernandez's case. A status conference is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., on July 18 before Magistrate Judge Shane Darrington. According to online court records, Hernandez has yet to enter a plea in the case.

Homedale man on probation after domestic battery conviction

A 62-year-old Homedale man charged in three felony cases last year has been sentenced to four years supervised probation and must serve 100 hours community service.

After reaching a plea agreement, Kelly Glenn Stewart was sentenced in two separate cases on June 24 including charges of felony domestic violence inflicting traumatic injury and felony controlled substance possession.

A third felony case in which Stewart faced two counts of receiving or transferring stolen vehicles, was dismissed by the prosecution.

Stewart received a withheld judgment in the domestic battery case and can petition the court to have his record expunged after successful completion of his sentence.

In addition to probation and community service, Stewart must pay $561 in court costs.

He already served 30 days in jail for the battery arrest, and three days on the drug charge. A prison sentence of two to five years on the felony drug possession was suspended.

Stewart was arrested at a residence in the first block of West Owyhee Avenue after 1 p.m., on Nov. 23 after he pulled some of his estranged wife's hair out during an argument. Homedale

Hunters’ input sought as F&G commissioners ponder grouse tag limit

*by Roger Phillips
Idaho Department of Fish and Game*

The Fish and Game Commission is scheduled to set sage-grouse tag numbers at its July 28 meeting in Salmon, and tags will go on sale on a first-come, first-served basis starting Aug. 1. People can comment on the proposed sage-grouse hunting season on the Fish and Game public comment webpage.

Since 2021, sage-grouse tags are now designated in 12 separate management zones. Hunters must choose a single zone in which to hunt, and the department’s proposal is to increase the number of tags a hunter may purchase from one to two.

Proposed season dates are:
Firearm season: Sept. 17 through Oct. 31
Falconry season: Aug. 15 through March 15, 2023

Owyhee County is divided into three zones:

- Zone 1 — North and west of the Mud Flat-Juniper Mountain Road.
- Zone 2 — South of Mud Flat-Juniper Mountain Road and west of the Bruneau River.
- Zone 3A — East of the Bruneau River; and Twin Falls County west of US Highway 93.

Sage-grouse tags are $22.75 each for residents and $74.25 for nonresidents. An updated seasons and rules brochure will be available online shortly after the July 28 Commission meeting.

The sage-grouse tag system is designed to limit harvest to no more than 10 percent of the estimated fall population in each of 12 hunting zones. In each zone, fall populations were estimated based on spring lek counts and recruitment estimates derived from juvenile-to-adult ratios observed in the harvest.

This is the second year tags have been required to hunt sage-grouse in Idaho. To set 2021 tag numbers for each zone, Fish and Game staff first determined an allowable harvest of eight percent of the estimated fall population in most zones, then assumed a 90 percent success rate for each tag purchased. Harvest success during the 2021 season was lower than anticipated, so proposed tag numbers in most zones were increased in 2022.

Statewide, sage-grouse populations increased 26 percent in 2022 compared to 2021, but are still down 28 percent from 2016. Trends were up statewide in 2022, with modest increases across southern Idaho. Fish and Game officials will continue to adapt harvest recommendations annually to maintain sustainable sage-grouse hunting opportunities in Idaho.

Rivercats get well in Orofino

*by John Bruyninckx
For The Owyhee Avalanche*

A four-run second inning set the tone, as the Owyhee Rivercats pulled away for a third consecutive win Saturday against the host Orofino Merchants.

Starter Payton Fine pitched a solid seven innings for a complete-game victory in the Rivercats’ 8-4 triumph in American Legion 18U action.

Fine allowed only five hits and one earned run in his fourth win of the season. He struck out four and walked four.

Three Rivercats had multiple hits.

Second baseman Xavier Uranga went 2-for-3, scored once, drove in two runs and stole a couple of bases.

Third baseman Dillon Fine went 2-for-4 with two runs scored. He also reached on a walk. Fine is now batting .565 for the year, with 27 RBI.

Catcher D’Orr Packer went 2-for-3, lashed two doubles and drove in a run. He has eight doubles on the season.

Friday: Rivercats 10, Orofino Merchants 8 — Three runs in the top of the sixth inning helped Owyhee complete a comeback.

Leadoff hitter Sigmund Goode sparked the offense, going 4-for-4 and hitting for the cycle. The shortstop homered in the first, singled in the third, tripled in the fourth and doubled in the sixth.

Friday: Rivercats 7, Orofino/Merchants 0 — Jayden Wutherich threw 3 1/3 innings of no-hit, no-run ball for the win. He struck out four and walked two.

Goode hit a home run to left field in the third inning, and went 2-for-2 with two runs scored and two RBI. Dillon

Fine and Packer contributed two hits each.

June 29: Fruitland 6, Rivercats 2 — Fruitland scored four times in the top of the sixth to break a 2-2 tie and seal the win.

Owyhee was held to six hits from six different players. The Rivercats’ only extra base hit was Goode’s double, and the only RBI came off the bat of Payton Fine. Goode took the loss.

June 28: Rivercats 7, Nampa Braves 5 — Six different Owyhee batters drove in a run, and Owyhee scored seven times in the final two innings to clinch the win.

Dillon Fine went the distance on the mound, striking out 10 Nampa hitters. He also tripled and scored a run and picked up an RBI. Payton Fine collected two hits while driving in a run and also scoring one.

RehabAuthority sports physicals to benefit athletes’ schools again

As is evident with summer leagues and summer camps, preparation never ceases for local high school coaches and athletes.

Homedale High School athletic director Casey Grove reminded parents and school-age athletes that RehabAuthority will offer sports physicals again later this summer.

As always, the $20 fee will be returned to the athletes’ respective school athletics programs.

The physicals for all local student-athletes will be available between 5 p.m., and 7 p.m., at the RehabAuthority Homedale clinic, 134 E. Owyhee Ave.

Incoming freshmen and juniors must have physicals completed before they can compete in 2022-23 sports seasons. Children who didn’t receive sports physicals but need them are also encouraged to attend.

Younger Rivercats cash in on chances

An eight-run explosion in the top of the third, gave the Owyhee Rivercats the lead for good in an American Legion 16U baseball game.

The Rivercats prevailed, 13-9, in a slugfest with Nampa last Wednesday.

Owyhee (10-4-1) jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the top of the first, but trailed, 6-4, by the bottom of the second as Nampa tallied the final four runs of a six-run surge in its first two at-bats.

Owyhee’s third-inning onslaught included five hits, two walks and a hit batsman. The Rivercats loaded the bases with nobody out, and the situation went quickly out of control as Owyhee sent 12 hitters to the plate.

The three hitters at the top of Owyhee’s batting order — Cash Comstock, Cyrus Wetherall and Carson Fine — went a combined 6-for-9, with five runs scored and four RBI. They also stole seven bases (Comstock four; Wetherall three).

Friday, Game 2: Owyhee 20, Phantoms 9 (5) — The Rivercats gained a doubleheader split by scoring eight times in the top of the first and never looking back.

The Phantoms didn’t help themselves, committing two errors and walking six in the opening frame. The Phantoms finished the game with seven errors, and their pitching staff contributed 18 bases on balls.

Friday, Game 1: Phantoms 10, Owyhee 6 — After taking a 5-0 lead in the opening inning, the Rivercats gave up at least one run in each of the next five innings.

Owyhee committed seven errors, and their pitchers walked six hitters.

Rivercats center fielder Todd Thatcher doubled with two RBI and a run scored. He also drew a walk.

Catcher Lukas Hall tripled, scored a run and walked twice. He also stole a base.

AF & AM Lodge to meet Saturday at Silver City

The annual homecoming meeting of Silver City Lodge No. 13 AF & AM will be held Saturday at the Masonic Temple in Silver City.

George W. Knoff, Idaho Falls, most worshipful grand master for Idaho will be a special guest. Stephan Mahaffey of Tendoy, deputy grand master, and other grand lodge officers also plan to attend.

The first known meeting of the Silver City lodge was Sept. 24, 1865, when they requested a dispensation from the grand master to establish the new lodge. Regular meetings were held from April 1866 until Aug. 13, 1949 when the lodge was moved to Homedale.

Poor roads and weather conditions were the reasons given for changing meeting places, according to Don Townsend, publicity chairman. However, since 1949 at least one regular meeting has been held in the old Masonic Temple in Silver City.

The old two-story building which sets astride Jordan Creek was constructed for a planing mill in 1868 with a social room on the upper floor where the fraternity met. The building was purchased by the Royal Arch Masons in 1870. It was remodeled in 1892 and the title was transferred to Lodge No. 13 in 1946.

George Kubosumi, Homedale, worshipful master of Silver City Lodge No. 13 extends an invitation to all members and sojourners and their families.

Ken Atkinson named rec aide in Silver City area

Ken Atkinson has been appointed as a recreation aide for the Silver City area by the BLM. He and his wife and two children will spend the summer in Silver City, according to Robert C. Krumm, district manager.

He will be responsible for managing the various undeveloped camping sites in the area, maintaining sanitation facilities, and providing information to the many people visiting the area. He also will collect data for use in the preparation of a management plan for Silver City and the Owyhee Mountains.

The Owyhee County "ghost town" has received nationwide attention. Approximately 20,000 tourists visit the area each summer. The town is mostly on land administered by the Bureau of Land Management. The buildings are privately owned.

PROSPECTS OF WAR EAGLE.—We learn from the workmen that the Silver Cord mine looks very encouraging and the ore is looking richer. There is a fine prospect ahead for the Cosmos Company, judging from what can be seen in and about the mine — and it's hard to judge rightly of what can't be seen.

The Woodstock mine is looking very well and yielding rich ore from a ledge of fourteen inches in width: the force of laborers will be increased as soon as the shaft is put down a few feet farther, and slopes started each way.

The North Star, lying north of the Oro Fino, is flattering to the owners. We saw some very rich gold ore there last week, and shall be much mistaken if a fair sized and well defined vein is not soon developed. In fact, the bottom of the works as now to be seen, the vein is nearly solid and two feet wide.

James McCready and others are driving a tunnel to strike an extension north on the North Star. If not mistaken in its course and dip they will reach the vein at a distance of eighty feet, and most of the work is already done.

The Poorman Extension Company is driving work at three places on the claim, and we hear that the Mississippi is about to receive some attention.

Of course the Poorman and Oro Fino mines are turning out pay rock as usual.

Mining on the Whisky ledge will be resumed shortly and made a constant thing. Some thirteen tuns just worked in the Minear Mill gave a very large yield of clean amalgam. We have heard that it is not yet assayed, but from what we hear the product will reach over one hundred dollars per tun. [Since the above was put to type we were shown the assay certificate of King, Webb & Co. of the bullion, and the assayed value is $1,519.48.]

The "Baxter" ledge, referred to in another place, is no small item in this reference to War Eagle.

There are other ledges upon which work is now well bestowed, and quite a number that if given a prospect such as the surface indications seem to justify, several more mills might be supplied at a profit.

The new Jail and Court-House building, east of Jordan Creek, is looming up quite conspicuously. A few weeks will see it completed if not paid for, when we shall describe the Institution more in detail. McMillan & Harper are good wood-butchers, and will make a first-rate job.

Center on Representative Government Americans vital to maintaining ordered liberty

American representative democracy holds out a valuable promise to the world. We can sum it up in a phrase: ordered liberty. And this promise is the essential promise of America. Our system of government offers a beacon of hope to the world with its ideal of ordered liberty.

As Americans, we believe all people should be able to govern themselves, and that leaders should be accountable to those whom they would lead. As the Declaration of Independence says, governments derive their power from the consent of the governed.

Liberty is one of the rights listed in the Declaration, along with life and the pursuit of happiness. Americans treasure our liberty and our freedoms, which are guaranteed in the Bill of Rights. But liberty doesn't come without limits. A functioning society requires a balance between freedom and structure, between liberty and order.

How do we maintain this balance? America's Founding Fathers gave this a lot of thought. I have, over the years, spent a lot of time reading the statements made by the founders; and I am impressed by how often they wrote about virtue as essential to self-government. They made clear that our leaders must be people of virtue. They also believed it took virtuous citizens to choose good leaders.

James Madison extolled the "great republican principle" that people would have the "virtue and intelligence" to select as leaders "men of virtue and wisdom." George Washington called virtue "a necessary spring of popular government." John Adams wrote that public virtue was "the only foundation of republics." Benjamin Franklin said that "only a virtuous people are capable of freedom."

Virtue, for the founders, didn't simply mean doing good or following rules for right behavior. They were referring to what might be called civic virtue, a quality that philosophers had discussed from the time of the ancient Greeks. In this view, a virtuous person exhibited such traits as wisdom, moderation,

From Washington America's natural wonders are everywhere to be found

Each year on the Fourth of July, we celebrate our nation's independence as a unique country — built on a bedrock of individual liberties and self-governance that we continue to refine. Our country is vast and home to people with infinitely different viewpoints, which contributes to our strength and challenges. However, we are all inheritors of this extraordinary legacy: our United States of America is a shining light and draw for our world not only for the freedoms empowered here, but also for our country's natural wonders we greatly value.

A prime example is Yellowstone National Park that bridges Idaho, Montana and Wyoming. This special place has drawn record numbers of visitors in the past few years, with 4.86 million visitors in 2021 alone. This and other facts about the park are included in a resolution the Senate unanimously passed earlier this year celebrating the 150th anniversary of Yellowstone National Park. Along with fellow U.S. senator for Idaho Jim Risch, I co-sponsored the resolution introduced by Sen. John Barrasso (R-Wyo.). The resolution highlights the amazing attributes of Yellowstone that include:

- Human history in the Yellowstone area dates back more than 11,000 years;
- Many Native American Tribes are associated with Yellowstone National Park;
- The park is 3,472 square miles and more than 2 million acres;
- The park contains half of the world's hydrothermal

Consider current value of vehicle before costly repairs

DAVE Says
by Dave Ramsey • www.davesays.org

Dear Dave,

We have a 2008 Honda Accord that needs a new timing chain. Our mechanic says the repair will cost about $2,200. The car is worth about $4,500. Is it time to get another car, or should we have it repaired?

— Susan

Dear Susan,

That sounds a little high for a timing chain fix to me. Maybe I'm wrong about that, but let's look at the math of your situation.

You say the value of the car is $4,500 if fixed and running properly. Let's say for the sake of argument the value of the car if you sell it as-is — basically salvage — is $1,500. If you take the value of the car as-is, plus the repair, and the number you come up with is more than the value of the car after it's fixed, you don't repair the car.

So, if this car is actually worth $1,500, the idea of fixing it is very questionable. If you can get $1,500 for this thing as-is, I'd sell it and put the $2,200 I would've thrown into fixing that old thing toward a better car.

You're talking about a big repair on an old car, Susan. If the repair price you got is right, and it was from an honest mechanic — not some padded, overblown quote from a dealer — I think it's time for that old beater to go!

✓ Wonders: Idaho's outdoor opportunities are not very far from home

• More than 1,000 native flowering species and nine conifer species are found in Yellowstone;

In 2020, visitors spent more than $444 million in gateway communities and supported 6,110 jobs in Idaho, Montana and Wyoming with a cumulative benefit to the local economy of $560 million.

Yellowstone is just one example of the enormous beauty and depth of our great state. Idaho's abundant wildlife, forests, rivers and lakes provide unparalleled recreational opportunities. While the pandemic upended many of our normal work and leisure routines, there was a large uptick in outdoor recreation, which carries both psychological and physiological benefits. Idahoans are fortunate in that we do not have to go far from any of our communities to benefit from the outdoors. Families enjoying the outdoors together help instill recognition of the important role of our natural resources, environment and wildlife to our quality of life.

The recent flooding in Yellowstone and surrounding areas reminds us just how fragile these natural wonders are and of the importance of protecting and preserving public lands. Ensuring access to recreational opportunities enables these resources to continue to benefit local economies and quality of life for future generations.

As families and friends gather throughout the summer, we often spend time in our great outdoors. I grew up camping, hunting and fishing — a tradition I shared with my children and continue to enjoy. In experiencing the outdoors, we gain a better understanding of the complexities of our beautiful world. Spending time enjoying the outdoors also provides an opportunity to reset from the jumble of everyday life.

I hope all Idahoans have opportunities to spend time in our state's and country's beautiful places, whether it is a national or state park, fishing stream, trail, forest, local community park or our own backyards. The wonder of America is all around us.

✓ Liberty: Virtuous voters must select virtuous government representation justice and self-restraint.

The French political philosopher Montesquieu, an important influence on America's founders, defined virtue as "a continuous preference of the public interest over one's own." In other words, it means putting the public good ahead of one's own wishes.

This idea of civic virtue is essential to the American conception of ordered liberty. This isn't American exceptionalism; it's not that we are more virtuous than the people of other nations. The point is that civic virtue is essential to self-government in our democratic system.

Along with the liberty that our system provides, there comes a tremendous responsibility. It's incumbent on us as Americans to understand and participate in our democracy. We need to choose our leaders wisely by making informed decisions when we vote. And it takes a lot more than voting. We need to be engaged citizens who do what we can to improve our communities and our nation.

Civic virtue requires understanding what it means to be an American, knowing how our government works and how to participate in it. This takes civic education, and it also requires civic-minded habits of thought and behavior, a willingness to promote the public good.

Madison wrote, in one of the most famous lines in the Federalist Papers, that, "if men were angels, no government would be necessary." The converse is also true: If people were incapable of virtue — if we couldn't act in the public interest — no government would be sufficient to secure ordered liberty.

Our system of government requires a fine balance between liberty and order, maintained by the civic virtue of our leaders and the people. It's America's promise — our gift, really — to the world. But there is no guarantee it will work as intended. That's up to us as citizens.
